

51 PASSENGERS AND 43 OF CREW ARE RESCUED AFTER LINER HITS REEF ON FLORIDA COAST

Hitler Escapes Bullets in Assassination Plot

ATTACK ON DEC. 31 DISCLOSED, LAID TO STORM TROOPS

Chauffeur to German Dictator Said To Be Wounded or Killed in Attempt on Leader; Rumors Unconfirmed.

FRENCH REPORTS ARE SUPPRESSED

Official Berlin Denies Closing of War Ministry Due to Suspected Espionage Plot.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—(P)—Unconfirmed reports from quarters in Munich and Berlin tonight said two storm troopers attempted to shoot Adolf Hitler in the chancellery on the night of December 31, not haring Hitler, but wounding a chauffeur.

Another version, likewise unconfirmed, said the chauffeur was killed.
Both reports were promptly denied in responsible circles.

It was noted that Chancellor Hitler has a new driver for his automobile.

It was said the reported attempt against Hitler's life motivated the mysterious secret meeting at the opera house in Berlin last Thursday.

A number of French newspapers were reported to have been confiscated in Germany for publishing reports of the alleged shooting.

Other rumors, officially denied, and unable to be confirmed, said the war ministry had been closed because of a suspected espionage plot involving 25 persons.

Reports of attempts to kill Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler are heard through Europe periodically.

Last December 18 a newspaper in Linz, Austria, said he had been wounded by a revolver shot fired by a girl, daughter of former Nazi Leader Helmuth Brueckner, deposed governor of Silesia. The same story said the girl and her taxi driver were slain after the attempt. Official quarters in Berlin the same day described the reports as "ridiculous inventions."

Brueckner was a friend of Breslau's police chief, Edmund Heines, who was shot June 30, 1934. Heines was said to have run up to Hitler with a revolver in his hand as Dr. Fuehrer conducted his "purge" raids. A companion of Hitler shot down Heines.

Last June 21 it was rumored Hitler had been fired at as he was returning to Berlin from Neudeck. Another report the same day said he was shot at while attending the funeral of General Herman Goerring's wife.

Augusta Legislator Is Married Sunday

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 6.—(P)— Roy V. Harris, member of the Georgia house of representatives from Richmond county, and Miss Mary Lewis, prominent Augusta, were married here this afternoon.

Immediately after the ceremony, performed at the St. James Methodist parsonage, the couple left for a short trip through Florida.

Mrs. Harris will accompany Mr.
Harris to Atlanta for the legislative session and they are scheduled to reach the capital Friday.

The News at a Glance

Clip this each day and make your scrapbook a thumbnail history, Jan. 7, 1935.

LOCAL:
New city council will be organized today. Mayor Key to outline plans.
Page 1.
Third suspect in Lord murder arrested. Page 1.
Georgia guardsmen take charge of strike area at Rossville. Page 1.
Twenty robberies cleared up by De-
Kalb police. Page 1.
Robin Hood bandit gives back money to victim. Page 3.

STATE:
(News of Georgia in Page 3.)
COLUMBUS — Second victim of killers found near river here.
AUGUSTA — State representative wins.
MACON — Store is robbed during rush hour.
DOMESTIC:
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Fifty-one passengers and 43 members of crew are rescued after liner Havana smashes on Bahama reef. Page 1.

Jafsie To Name German
As Recipient of Ransom

Condon To Take Stand Perhaps Tuesday; Betty Gow Expected To Testify Shortly After Resumption of Trial Today.

By JOHN FERRIS.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—(P)—The sparring over, the state will take off its gloves this week and slay here first at Bruno Hauptmann's
defense to charges of baby murder.

Dr. John F. Condon, the 73-year-old Bronx schoolmaster who found himself a principal in the negotiations
to ransom the Charles A. Lindbergh stolen baby, is depended upon to strike
the first solid blow.

During the week Dr. Condon is to take the stand in the crowded, close courtroom, and say—as did Colonel Lindbergh last week:

"The man to whom the $50,000 ransom money was paid was Hauptmann."

The defense, hoping to counteract the effect of this testimony, will strike back with the charge that four persons actually kidnaped the baby and that Hauptmann was not one of them.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, said he would name the four,
probably Thursday.

Lindberghs Threatened.
New Jersey authorities disclosed tonight that letters threatening harm to members of the Lindbergh family and Anthony M. Hauck Jr., Hunterdon county prosecutor, have been received since the opening of the trial.

Hauck, who was inclined to discount the seriousness of the threats,
said that one came from Utica, N. Y.,
threatening his life in the event Bruno
Richard Hauptmann was convicted.

For many months no disturbing
communications have been received,
and none was brought to Colonel Lindbergh's attention. Within the past few days, however, new communications have been received which have caused some alarm.

When court resumes tomorrow morning, it is expected the state will show the letters, and the state is expected to call as one of its first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cemetry that Dr. Condon, first using the name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same relative positions they did at the cemetery meeting. Dr. Condon, it
was learned, talked of Hauptmann's
mother, his spiritual life, his wife.
He urged the prisoner as he had urged
"John" to confess, but Hauptmann was
silent.

This afternoon C. Lloyd Fisher, of Flemington, associate defense counsel,
renewed an invitation to Dr. Condon
to pay a return visit to Hauptmann
before the Bronx educator takes the stand.

Fisher again urged that if such a visit was made, the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same
relative positions they did at the cemetery meeting. Dr. Condon, it
was learned, talked of Hauptmann's
mother, his spiritual life, his wife.
He urged the prisoner as he had urged
"John" to confess, but Hauptmann was
silent.

This afternoon C. Lloyd Fisher, of Flemington, associate defense counsel,
renewed an invitation to Dr. Condon
to pay a return visit to Hauptmann
before the Bronx educator takes the
stand.

Fisher again urged that if such a visit was made, the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

THIRD MAN HELD IN HOLDUP KILLING OF DAVID A. LORD

Sam Daniel, 27, Named
by Honea and Sisk, Arrested at Home of Relative in West Virginia.

By JOHN FERRIS.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—(P)—The sparring over, the state will take off its gloves this week and slay here first at Bruno Hauptmann's
defense to charges of baby murder.

Dr. John F. Condon, the 73-year-
old Bronx schoolmaster who found himself a principal in the negotiations
to ransom the Charles A. Lindbergh stolen baby, is depended upon to strike
the first solid blow.

During the week Dr. Condon is to take the stand in the crowded, close
courtroom, and say—as did Colonel Lindbergh last week:

"The man to whom the $50,000 ransom money was paid was Hauptmann."

The defense, hoping to counteract
the effect of this testimony, will strike
back with the charge that four persons actually kidnaped the baby and
that Hauptmann was not one of them.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense
counsel, said he would name the four,
probably Thursday.

Lindberghs Threatened.
New Jersey authorities disclosed tonight that letters threatening harm to members of the Lindbergh family and
Anthony M. Hauck Jr., Hunterdon
county prosecutor, have been received
since the opening of the trial.

Hauck, who was inclined to discount the seriousness of the threats,
said that one came from Utica, N. Y.,
threatening his life in the event Bruno
Richard Hauptmann was convicted.

For many months no disturbing
communications have been received,
and none was brought to Colonel Lindbergh's attention. Within the past few days, however, new communications have been received which
have caused some alarm.

When court resumes tomorrow
morning, it is expected the state will show the letters, and the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became
publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same
relative positions they did at the cemetery meeting. Dr. Condon, it
was learned, talked of Hauptmann's
mother, his spiritual life, his wife.
He urged the prisoner as he had urged
"John" to confess, but Hauptmann was
silent.

This afternoon C. Lloyd Fisher, of Flemington, associate defense counsel,
renewed an invitation to Dr. Condon
to pay a return visit to Hauptmann
before the Bronx educator takes the stand.

Fisher again urged that if such a visit was made, the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became
publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same
relative positions they did at the cemetery meeting. Dr. Condon, it
was learned, talked of Hauptmann's
mother, his spiritual life, his wife.
He urged the prisoner as he had urged
"John" to confess, but Hauptmann was
silent.

This afternoon C. Lloyd Fisher, of Flemington, associate defense counsel,
renewed an invitation to Dr. Condon
to pay a return visit to Hauptmann
before the Bronx educator takes the stand.

Fisher again urged that if such a visit was made, the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

Georgia Guardsmen Take Charge
Of Mill Strike Zone at Rossville

Sam Daniel, 27, Named
by Honea and Sisk, Arrested at Home of Relative in West Virginia.

By JOHN FERRIS.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—(P)—The sparring over, the state will take off its gloves this week and slay here first at Bruno Hauptmann's
defense to charges of baby murder.

Dr. John F. Condon, the 73-year-
old Bronx schoolmaster who found himself a principal in the negotiations
to ransom the Charles A. Lindbergh stolen baby, is depended upon to strike
the first solid blow.

During the week Dr. Condon is to take the stand in the crowded, close
courtroom, and say—as did Colonel Lindbergh last week:

"The man to whom the $50,000 ransom money was paid was Hauptmann."

The defense, hoping to counteract
the effect of this testimony, will strike
back with the charge that four persons actually kidnaped the baby and
that Hauptmann was not one of them.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense
counsel, said he would name the four,
probably Thursday.

Lindberghs Threatened.
New Jersey authorities disclosed tonight that letters threatening harm to members of the Lindbergh family and
Anthony M. Hauck Jr., Hunterdon
county prosecutor, have been received
since the opening of the trial.

Hauck, who was inclined to discount the seriousness of the threats,
said that one came from Utica, N. Y.,
threatening his life in the event Bruno
Richard Hauptmann was convicted.

For many months no disturbing
communications have been received,
and none was brought to Colonel Lindbergh's attention. Within the past few days, however, new communications have been received which
have caused some alarm.

When court resumes tomorrow
morning, it is expected the state will show the letters, and the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became
publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same
relative positions they did at the cemetery meeting. Dr. Condon, it
was learned, talked of Hauptmann's
mother, his spiritual life, his wife.
He urged the prisoner as he had urged
"John" to confess, but Hauptmann was
silent.

This afternoon C. Lloyd Fisher, of Flemington, associate defense counsel,
renewed an invitation to Dr. Condon
to pay a return visit to Hauptmann
before the Bronx educator takes the stand.

Fisher again urged that if such a visit was made, the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became
publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same
relative positions they did at the cemetery meeting. Dr. Condon, it
was learned, talked of Hauptmann's
mother, his spiritual life, his wife.
He urged the prisoner as he had urged
"John" to confess, but Hauptmann was
silent.

This afternoon C. Lloyd Fisher, of Flemington, associate defense counsel,
renewed an invitation to Dr. Condon
to pay a return visit to Hauptmann
before the Bronx educator takes the stand.

Fisher again urged that if such a visit was made, the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

Georgia Guardsmen Take Charge
Of Mill Strike Zone at Rossville

Sam Daniel, 27, Named
by Honea and Sisk, Arrested at Home of Relative in West Virginia.

By JOHN FERRIS.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—(P)—The sparring over, the state will take off its gloves this week and slay here first at Bruno Hauptmann's
defense to charges of baby murder.

Dr. John F. Condon, the 73-year-
old Bronx schoolmaster who found himself a principal in the negotiations
to ransom the Charles A. Lindbergh stolen baby, is depended upon to strike
the first solid blow.

During the week Dr. Condon is to take the stand in the crowded, close
courtroom, and say—as did Colonel Lindbergh last week:

"The man to whom the $50,000 ransom money was paid was Hauptmann."

The defense, hoping to counteract
the effect of this testimony, will strike
back with the charge that four persons actually kidnaped the baby and
that Hauptmann was not one of them.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense
counsel, said he would name the four,
probably Thursday.

Lindberghs Threatened.
New Jersey authorities disclosed tonight that letters threatening harm to members of the Lindbergh family and
Anthony M. Hauck Jr., Hunterdon
county prosecutor, have been received
since the opening of the trial.

Hauck, who was inclined to discount the seriousness of the threats,
said that one came from Utica, N. Y.,
threatening his life in the event Bruno
Richard Hauptmann was convicted.

For many months no disturbing
communications have been received,
and none was brought to Colonel Lindbergh's attention. Within the past few days, however, new communications have been received which
have caused some alarm.

When court resumes tomorrow
morning, it is expected the state will show the letters, and the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became
publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same
relative positions they did at the cemetery meeting. Dr. Condon, it
was learned, talked of Hauptmann's
mother, his spiritual life, his wife.
He urged the prisoner as he had urged
"John" to confess, but Hauptmann was
silent.

This afternoon C. Lloyd Fisher, of Flemington, associate defense counsel,
renewed an invitation to Dr. Condon
to pay a return visit to Hauptmann
before the Bronx educator takes the stand.

Fisher again urged that if such a visit was made, the state is
expected to call as one of its
first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse, who put the Lindbergh
baby to sleep in his crib at Hope-
well on the night of March 1, 1932.

Her testimony, it is believed, will
be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's
mother.

Visited Carpenter.
Dr. Condon came to Flemington
shortly after Hauptmann was brought here from the Bronx and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell, using as far as he was able the same language he
used when he sat with the mysterious
"John" for more than an hour in
Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

It was at this meeting in the cem-
etry that Dr. Condon, first using the
name of "Jafsie," received from Hauptmann a promise to send to him the
sleeping garment of the Lindbergh
baby as definite proof that he really
had the child.

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became
publicly known a short time after the educator's visit to Flemington, but
the prosecution made its first definite announcement of the identification
yesterday.

"Jafsie" and Hauptmann occupied
Cell No. 1 in the jail here the same

CHASE BANK DEPOSITS SHOW GAIN FOR YEAR

Total on Dec. 31, 1934, Listed at $1,639,066,000; Total Resources Rise.

The statement of the Chase National bank for December 31, 1934, was made public Sunday. The deposits of the bank on that date were $1,639,066,000 and certified and cashier's checks, $70,706,000, the sum of which, $1,709,772,000 compares with $1,583,447,000 on June 30, 1934, and $1,384,339,000 a year ago.

Total resources amounted to $1,999,050,000 as compared with $1,810,699,000 on June 30, 1934, and $1,715,188,000 a year ago; cash in the bank's vaults and on deposit with the Federal Reserve bank and other banks, $514,732,000 as compared with $412,911,000 and $304,750,000 respectively; investments in United States government securities, $508,435,000, including $46,222,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation notes which were not included in the June 30 figure of $417,368,000 and the figure of $207,064,000 a year ago; securities maturing within two years, $97,821,000 as compared with $94,180,000 and $91,945,000; other bonds and securities, including stock in the Fed-

Hauptmann Jury Finds Newspapers in Ribbons

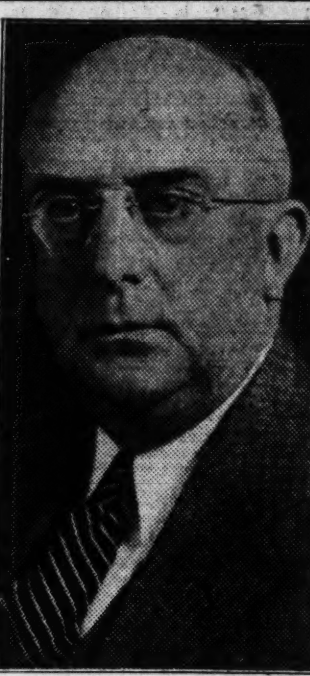

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 6. (AP)—The Hauptmann jury awoke this morning to find their newspaper ribbons slashed to shreds.

By order of the court all news pertaining to the Hauptmann case has been censored from publications delivered to the jury.

Because the large volume of news on the nation's greatest crime story was widely scattered through their papers, no news section was left intact, and several feature sections were deleted entirely.

Hauptmann's newspapers get the same treatment before he sees them.

New Head of Asylum

Dr. John W. Oden, superintendent of the Gracewood Hospital for Mental Defectives at Augusta, who has been named superintendent of the state hospital at Milledgeville. He succeeds Dr. Roger C. Swint, removed after 24 years as superintendent.

2,500,000 WORDS ON LINDBERGH CASE WRITTEN IN WEEK

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 6. (AP)—It took more than 2,500,000 words to tell the world the first week's news of the Hauptmann trial.

Friday's cross-examination of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the heaviest volume of wordage, communication company officials said.

In excess of a million words were written on that day alone, with a peak load coming during one morning hour when approximately 100,000 words were sent out over the wires.

An official of the telephone company said that the trial would have to run five weeks before his company would begin to show a profit on its special installation.

In addition to the two direct teletype circuits now being operated to London for three great London daily newspapers, a third wire, set up early in the week to a paper in Sydney, Australia.

NEW CITY COUNCIL ORGANIZES TODAY

Continued From First Page.

thirty-fifth Georgia (Fulton county) district in the 1935 session of the legislature. He will be succeeded by John W. Ball Jr.

Richards Succeeds Rusk.

Councilman H. Parks Rusk, of the thirteenth ward, will relinquish his seat to former Alderman and former Mayor Pro Tem, Alvin L. Richards, and Councilman Lester Brewer, elected to fill the interim term left vacant through resignation of Councilman J. Raymond Curtis, of the tenth ward.

Key's new term is for two years. Aldermen serve for four years and councilmen for three years.

C. W. Hester will be elected as third ward councilman at the afternoon council session to succeed Ed L. Almond, who resigned to accept a post as Fulton county commissioner, and Louis Geffen, attorney, will be elected as a member of the board of education from the second ward at the same session to succeed Thomas J. Grogan.

Councilman Joseph E. Berman, fourth ward, will ask establishment of a special committee to study prohibition control in Georgia, and Councilman Max M. Cuba, second ward, will move to establish a special committee to obtain $100,000 for construction of a new curb market on a suitable location.

CONDON TO ACCUSE GERMAN AS TAKER OF RANSOM MONEY

Continued From First Page.

visit was made a defense lawyer be present.

Radio as Exhibit.

The ransom money was paid by Dr. Condon on the night of April 2, 1932, in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx.

It was there, Colonel Lindbergh testified last week, that he heard Hauptmann calling from the darkness, "Hey, doctor!"

In his cross-examination of Lindbergh, Reilly made no reference to the voice identification.

As the state develops its case in the second week of the German carpenter's trial before Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, and a jury of eight men and four women it will bring into court the $400 radio, which Wilentz said in his opening address to the jury last Thursday was bought by Hauptmann in May, 1932.

The prosecution also will put on the witness stand a radio which the Hauptmann family who will testify she examined the radio shortly after it was purchased.

At that time, the woman will testify, she opened the top of the radio and found within a large roll of currency. Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the prisoner, explained, the woman will testify, that her husband put the money in the radio cabinet for safe keeping.

Seek To Bare Time of Death.

Miss Gow will testify to her finding of the metal thumbguard worn by the Lindbergh baby at the time he was abducted and removed as the kidnaper "ripped and yanked" in the words of Wilentz, the baby's sleeping suit from his body.

The nurse's testimony on this point will definitely establish, the prosecution expects, that the baby was killed before the abductor left the Lindbergh estate. This will anticipate the possible raising of the issue of Hunterdon county's jurisdiction in the case. The baby's body was found on Mount Rose road, five miles or so from the Lindbergh home, and in Mercer county.

Reilly's cross-examination of Miss Gow probably will be one of the high spots of the trial. In his questioning of Colonel Lindbergh last week Reilly time and again asked the flyer about the servants at the Hopewell home and the Englewood estate of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh.

He asked the colonel about the background of Miss Gow and of the late "Ollie" Whately, the butler, and Whately's wife, Elsie, what their references were and who recommended them, broadly insinuating that the kidnappers might have been carried out from within the house, and that the three-piece ladder, found about 30 feet from the nursery window, was not used.

Ladder Not Yet Produced.

The ladder has not yet been produced in court, nor has a steel chisel, also found on the estate where, the state contends, it was dropped with the ladder as the abductor fled through the darkness with the baby or its body.

The defense will bring into court three handwriting experts who will testify the handwriting of the ransom notes is not that of Hauptmann.

Hauptmann himself will be the first defense witness. He will deny he was in New Jersey on the day or night of the crime, and Reilly will produce witnesses to support his testimony.

The state has been investigating reports that the three defense handwriting experts have been preparing notes with handwriting similar to that of Hauptmann's, and may produce these in court to show the handwriting is easily duplicated.

The state believes the defense will try to prove that the kidnapper-murder was the work of a gang who planned to make Hauptmann the scapegoat of the crime.

The defense is expected to offer in evidence the prepared imitations of Hauptmann's handwriting in an attempt to convince the jury the carpenter's chirography was used to fix the blame on him.

State "Uninterested."

Wilentz, in Trenton today, was asked if the state will force Reilly to name the four alleged kidnappers before he does so voluntarily.

"The department of justice," Wilentz said, "the internal revenue department and the New York and New Jersey police who have been working on this case since March 1, 1932, have solved this case with the arrest of Hauptmann."

"To say we are suspicious of suggestions emanating from sources interested in Hauptmann's handwriting and attempting to shift from Hauptmann the responsibility for this crime is to put it very mildly, an effort to be extremely generous with respected members of the bar."

"We are not interested in bedtime stories at this stage of the case."

The attorney-general said state police who were at the Hopewell house the night of the kidnapping would fol-

WORLD BAPTIST HEAD TO BE HERE FEB. 9-11

Dr. George W. Truett, Alliance President, Will Be Heard at Dinner, Luncheon.

Dr. George W. Truett, president of the Baptist World Alliance, will come to Atlanta February 9-11, Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, who was successful in winning the next world congress of Baptists for Atlanta in 1933, announced Sunday.

Dr. Truett will arrive in Atlanta Saturday, February 9, and will be entertained that night at a dinner of Atlanta Baptist leaders. While at the dinner Dr. Truett will be heard throughout the south in a radio address on the Baptist Hundred Thousand Club, a movement of the Southern Baptist convention to retire the indebtedness of its several agencies.

Sunday, February 10, Dr. Truett will preach at the Druid Hills Baptist church, morning and evening. A mass meeting of Atlanta Baptists and neighboring communities may be planned for Sunday afternoon. Dr. Truett's sermons on Sunday will be broadcast over radio for the sake of his many friends throughout the south.

Monday, February 11, a luncheon will be given Dr. Truett at noon, to which the business and professional men of Atlanta, together with religious leaders, both laymen and clergymen, will be invited, at which time the world leader will be asked to speak on current movements that affect the happiness and progress of civilization. Governor Eugene Talmadge, Mayor James L. Key, members of the general assembly and leaders of every walk of life will be invited to attend the luncheon.

U. S. POSITIONS OPEN IN SEVERAL FIELDS

The United States civil service commission announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Principal telephone engineer, $5,600; senior telephone engineer, senior telegraph engineer, $4,900; telephone engineer, telegraph engineer, $3,800; associate telephone engineer, associate telegraph engineer, $3,200; assistant telegraph engineer, $2,600 a year, federal communications commission.

Assistant director of grazing, $5,600 a year, division of grazing control, department of the interior.

Grazier, $3,200 a year, division of grazing control, department of the interior.

The closing date for receipt of applications for these examinations is January 30, 1935.

Full information may be obtained from the manager of the United States civil service board of examiners, at the postoffice here.

KILL A COLD "DEAD"!

Treat a cold promptly. Take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It does four important things: First, it opens the bowels. Second, it combats infection and fever in the system. Third, it relieves the headache and grippiness. Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack. At all drug stores.

Grove's LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE

Borah Urges Aid to States For Old-Age Pension Systems

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (AP)—A strong plea for federal aid to the states in setting up old age pension systems was issued today by Senator Borah in praising President Roosevelt's promise to include this form of economic security in his general welfare program.

"The president's message greatly strengthens the cause of old age pensions," said the republican independent from Idaho.

"Both from a humanitarian and economic view the government will be compelled to act," he said.

Just what kind of bill the president will suggest has not been discussed, but a survey conducted by the labor department during the summer indicated while state old age pension systems were on the increase, most were in need of federal aid. Only 13 of the 28 states and two territories having them at the end of 1933 were making payments to beneficiaries.

Most of the pension states pay $25 or $30 a month, when their tax revenues for the purpose enable them to do so, a small percentage of the $200 provided in the Townsend plan which has quite a few supporters in congress, especially among the new members. The administration opposes it, however.

"After four years of depression, a large percentage of our elderly people have exhausted their means; their life savings are gone," said Borah, whose own state has a pension plan paying $25 a month.

"It is too late for them to find a place in the industrial world. Even if industrial conditions were normal they could not find positions."

"The states are at present wholly unprepared and many not able to provide adequate pensions. Old age pension legislation ought to be regarded as a definite part of our program. That is the logic of the president's message."

Borah did not estimate the possible cost of this aid to the federal government. But he feels government aid is doubly essential, since the administration is about to transfer back to the states and local charity responsibility for relief of 1,500,000

MONARCHISTS SEE OTTO'S ASCENSION

Franco-Italian Accord Is Viewed as Solution for Exile's Return.

VIENNA, Jan. 6. (UP)—Monarchists tonight predicted the new Franco-Italian accord will permit the early return of Archduke Otto of Hapsburg to the Austrian throne.

The monarchists were jubilant at the reports of the accord from Rome. The return of Otto and his eventual rise to the throne of his ancestors is regarded as purely a domestic affair, but threats from Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia against such a move so far have prevented realization of the dreams of the monarchists.

They feel now that once Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia have signed the Rome treaty guaranteeing Austrian independence they could hardly justify use of force to prevent restoration of Otto's Austrian citizenship, or even his ascent to the throne. Austrians generally hail the Rome accord as favorable to her cause in general. They feel the pact, by outlawing interference by others in her domestic affairs, gives Austria a better "big stick" to use against German Nazi propaganda, and against recent and even more effective communist propaganda sent into this country by emigres in Czechoslovakia.

known in business circles. He was a member of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church and was a thirty-second degree Mason.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Shelton, and three brothers, S. C. Shelton, of Atlanta; R. F. Shelton, of Augusta, and Addison Shelton, of Charleston, S. C. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

THIRD MAN, HELD IN HOLDUP KILLING OF DAVID A. LORD

Continued From First Page.

of drunk and disorderly and was released on a copy of charges. He never appeared in record court to answer to the charges, according to police records.

Fulton County Policemen Vinson and Nichols left Atlanta Sunday morning for Bloomfield to return Daniel to Atlanta.

Both Honea and Sisk were indicted by the grand jury Friday on bills charging murder, holdups and robbery, as well as automobile theft and carrying concealed weapons.

OLIVER M. SHELTON, 51, FURNITURE MAN, DIES

Oliver M. Shelton, 51, manager of the Perdue Furniture Company here, died Sunday morning at his residence at 1244 Mansfield avenue, N. E. He had been a resident of Atlanta for many years and was well-known by many years and was well-

"I get back SAVINGS when I trade at-"

ROGERS

QUALITY FOOD SHOPS

Fruits &amp; Vegetables Medium Size Winesap Apples 2 DOZ. 15c Fresh Turnips BUNCH 5c Fresh Turnip Salad LB. 5c Green Top Carrots BUNCH 6c California Iceberg Lettuce HEAD 8c	Land o' Lakes BUTTER LB. 36c Domino Syrup NO. 1 CAN 12½c Gorton's Codfish CAN 12½c Del Monte Whole Grain Corn 2 CANS 25c Washing Powder Gold Dust PKG. 2c Georgia Boy Syrup LARGE BOTTLE 25c Our Mother's Cocoa LB. BOX 12c
--	--

ROGERS FINE QUALITY MEATS

Swift's Premium Wieners LB. 23c

Pure Pork Sausage ..... LB. 23c
 Pork Shoulder Steak ..... LB. 20c
 Fresh Beef Liver ..... LB. 15c
 Brick Chili ..... LB. 15c
 Fresh Country Sausage ..... LB. 25c

Fresh Ground Hamburger LB. 17c

For Salad Dressings
 Jewel Oil ..... 17c
 Pillsbury's Pancake Flour ..... PKG. 11c
 Daufuski's Canned Oysters ..... CAN 12½c
 Richmond Maid Baking Powder ..... LB. CAN 25c
 Tasty Flake Ginger Snaps ..... LB. BOX 10c

Stokely's Mixed Vegetables ..... NO. 3 CAN 15c
 Van Camp's Tomato Soup ..... CAN 10c
 Colonial Assorted Flavors Preserves ..... LB. JAR 17c
 French's Bird Seed ..... PKG. 15c
 French's Bird Gravel ..... PKG. 10c

A&P

ESTABLISHED 1859

WHOLE ECONOMY RULES

ONE DAY SPECIALS

PRICES EFFECTIVE MONDAY ONLY

FANCY FLORIDA MEDIUM SIZE

Oranges 2 DOZ. 25c

GREEN Collards LARGE BUNCH 6c

TURNIP Greens POUND 5c

EIGHT O'CLOCK Coffee POUND 19c

SOAP SALE

P. & G. SOAP . 3 LARGE BARS 10c

IVORY SOAP . 2 6-OZ. BARS 11c

SELOX Small Size . . . PKG. 5c

CHIPSO Small . . . 2 PKGS. 13c

O. K. SOAP . . . 2 1-LB. BARS 9c

OXYDOL . . . . . PKG. 5c

GUEST IVORY SOAP 4 CAKES 15c

AT A&P MEAT MARKETS

FRESH SLICED Beef Liver LB. 15c

FRESH SHOULDER Pork Steak LB. 20c

SPECIAL ALL WEEK

Grandmother's Cracked Wheat BREAD 16-OZ. LOAF 7c

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK

OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

Statement of Condition, December 31, 1934

RESOURCES
CASH AND DUE FROM BANKS	$ 514,731,533.55
U. S. GOVERNMENT OBLIGATIONS, DIRECT AND FULLY GUARANTEED	503,434,803.19
STATE AND MUNICIPAL SECURITIES
MATURING WITHIN TWO YEARS	77,368,535.72
OTHER STATE AND MUNICIPAL SECURITIES	31,687,069.16
OTHER SECURITIES
MATURING WITHIN TWO YEARS	20,452,396.52
FEDERAL RESERVE BANK STOCK	8,160,000.00
OTHER BONDS AND SECURITIES	93,531,587.92
LOANS, DISCOUNTS AND BANKERS' ACCEPTANCES	651,069,766.03
BANKING HOUSES	39,930,029.80
OTHER REAL ESTATE	1,640,384.50
MORTGAGES	4,055,281.74
CUSTOMERS' ACCEPTANCE LIABILITY	41,436,541.55
OTHER ASSETS	11,522,917.63
	$1,999,050,847.31
LIABILITIES
CAPITAL—PREFERRED	$ 50,000,000.00
CAPITAL—COMMON	100,270,000.00
SURPLUS	50,000,000.00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS	18,839,363.44
RESERVE FOR CONTINGENCIES	18,570,320.70
RESERVE FOR TAXES, INTEREST, ETC.	1,216,435.32
DEPOSITS	1,639,086,386.84
CERTIFIED AND CASHIER'S CHECKS	70,705,988.03
ACCEPTANCES OUTSTANDING	43,836,819.86
ITEMS IN TRANSIT WITH BRANCHES	886,813.77
LIABILITY AS ENDORSER OF ACCEPTANCES AND FOREIGN BILLS	408,055.15
OTHER LIABILITIES	5,230,664.20
	$1,999,050,847.31

United States Government and other securities carried at $168,034,423.17 are pledged to secure public and trust deposits and for other purposes required by law.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

PRICES EFFECTIVE MONDAY AND TUESDAY

EGGS ALL WHITE GUARANTEED SELECTED DOZ. 33c

RUTABAGA TURNIPS LB. 2c

BAKING POTATOES LB. 5c

WINESAP APPLES DOZ. 33c

WINESAP APPLES DOZ. 12½c

WHITE HARD HEAD DANISH CABBAGE LB. 2c

FANCY SNOWBALL CAULIFLOWER LB. 10c

FRESH BUNCH CARROTS EA. 6c

FANCY THIN RIND GRAPEFRUIT 5 FOR 10c

ICEBERG LETTUCE EA. 8c

CHASE & SANBORN'S DATED COFFEE LB. 29c

CLOTH BAG SUGAR 5 LBS. 26c 10 LBS. 51c

LIBBY'S NO. 1 CANS TOMATO JUICE 3 FOR 25c

NO. 2 CANS CUT BEANS EA. 10c

NO. 3½ CANS GA. BEANS 10c

PEACHES 10c

KILN-DRIED YAMS 5 LBS. 15c

WHITE OR RED ONIONS POUND 5c

VELVO COFFEE POUND 19c

IN OUR MEAT MARKETS

BALTIMORE STEW Oysters PTS. 25c

BOILED HAM ¼ LB. 25c

CHILI ARMOUR'S OR WILSON'S LB. 21c

STEAK BONELESS ROUND LB. 30c

GROUND BEEF LB. 17c

BEEF LIVER SLICED LB. 15c

CHEESE LB. 25c

BEEF LB. 12½c

PORK CHOPS END CUTS LB. 23c

VEAL STEAK CUTE CENTER LB. 29c

SHOULDER CUTS POUND 21c

Stark Reality of War Shown in Georgia Film

Composed of authentic war films obtained from the secret archives of various belligerent governments, "The First World War," is a vivid, piercing picture that shows war as a grandiose panoply of blaring bands, cheering throngs and parading patriots and then strips away this falsity to depict war that means pain and death, mud and gore and black horror.

In no way a political commentary, "The First World War," reviews the events leading up to 1914 such as Arch Duke Franz Ferdinand's assassination and mobilization first in Russia, then Austria, Germany, France and England.

The realization that every scene is a reality, the price of which was paid in human life, makes the picture more gripping than any this reviewer has ever seen.

For effective shots watch for the blowing up, torpedoing and sinking of countless ships, the bringing down of airplanes and balloons in flames, infantry attacks in which men stagger and fall before the rain of steel, and barren, blood-stained fields on which lie stiffened corpses, smeared with gore.

"The First World War" teaches a lesson we all should learn of a world gone mad with slaughter, thinly masked by propaganda of glamour and glory. —W. W. B.

RIALTO
DOORS OPEN
9:45 A. M.
WARNER MYRNA
BAXTER LOY
Broadway
Bill
FRANK CAPRA COLUMBIA PRODUCTION

LOEW'S Grand
JOAN CRAWFORD
CLARK GABLE
Robt. Montgomery
IN M. G. M.'s
"FORSAKING ALL OTHERS" Eddie Cantor
in
"KID MILLIONS"

PARAMOUNT
NOW
BING CROSBY
in
"Here is My Heart"
with KITTIE CARLISLE

GEORGIA —NOW—
The First World War
its mighty drama lives again... right before your eyes... as it actually happened... as the cameras of the world's greatest motion picture studios... in carefully guarded official time... outside... unscripted... Edited by Laurence Stallings.

CAPITOL
STAGE
Irving Lewis
"Merry Widow"
A New Edition!
Gloria Swanson
in
"IN OLD SANTI FE"

ADDED POWER URGED FOR FIGHT ON TRUSTS

NRA Consumers' Board Holds Recovery Act Aims Are Frustrated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—NRA's consumers' advisory board today recommended a considerable extension of the government's power to prevent monopoly.

In so doing, it advised serious consideration of proposals by the federal trade commission to stop concentration of business in the hands of large corporations.

The board made its report to the national industrial recovery board, which announced it had not yet had time for their formal consideration.

It was said authoritatively, however, that some high NRA officials were sympathetic to the theories proposed.

The consumers' board report comes after the death of its recent chief, Mrs. Mary Rumsey, who often argued along these lines. Consumers' representatives have complained about the neglect of their suggestions by the recovery administration.

The report recommended an intermediate program between one which would encourage monopoly and one which would stimulate unbridled competition, and suggested that the recovery administration has not followed the purposes of the recovery act. It said the act was intended to "promote the fullest possible utilization of the present productive capacity of industry, to avoid undue restriction of production... to increase the consumption of industrial and agricultural products... and to conserve natural resources."

In many industries "monopolistic control is notoriously present," the report said.

Competition had passed away long before the enactment of NIRA, said the report. "It could not conceivably be resurrected by the reapplication of the anti-trust laws. Here these laws are ineffectual."

While further code experimentation is necessary in these industries, the report said, such codes "should outlaw monopolistic price practices, but they should be administered by authorities whose membership largely represented the public interest."

Modern Robin Hood Returns Loot to Victim

There was a dominant streak of Robin Hood in the white bandit who early Sunday night held up J. R. Coker, of 1215 Francis street, on Fourteenth street near Williams street.

When the bandit poked a gun in Coker's stomach and commanded him to "stick 'em up" Coker obliged, he told police, while the bandit made a systematic search of his pockets which revealed only about $1 in small change. The bandit jingled the money in his hand for a moment—and he laughed.

"Gosh, man! You're as hard up as I am. Here," he said, returning the money to Coker's pockets.

NOX
THE SOUTH'S FINEST
Gloria SWANSON
John BOLES
Music in the Air
LAST DAY!
JACK O'NEAL
"ST. LOUIS KID"
PATRICIA ELLIS

Columbus Citizen Found Dead on Street

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Police today reported finding N. B. Idol, 50, dead on a street near the Chattahoochee river wharf here early today.

Authorities said there were knife wounds on his neck and chest and hammer wounds on his head. Idol was a former soldier.

Last week E. B. Watson, of Phenix City, Ala., just across the river from Columbus, was found dead here from a skull fracture.

Authorities in each case, advanced the theory the man had been slain and carried to the point where his body was found.

EX-CONVICT TO FACE TRIAL IN DUAL KILLING

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 6.—(AP)—J. J. Mendenhall, 60-year-old pardoned life-term convict, faces trial here tomorrow on his third and fourth indictments charging murder.

Mendenhall, who served 15 years of a life sentence for the murder of a woman near Clearwater, and who was indicted but not tried for the murder of another, is charged with slaying Mrs. Laura Matilda Green, 84, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Rae Anderson, 60, at their home here last February 5.

Theater Programs.

Picture and Stage Shows
CAPITOL—"In Old Santa Fe," with Ken Maynard, Evelyn Knapp, etc., at 11:45, 2:25, 4:50, 7:20, 10:15. Stage show at 1:30, 4:15, 6:55, 9:25.

Burlesque
ATLANTA—"Full Sail," with Joan Sawyer, etc., at 11:30, 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30. Snooky Woods, extra.

First-Run Pictures
FOX—"The First World War," with James Cagney and Patricia Ellis, at 1, 3, 5, 7, 9 o'clock. Newmarket and short subjects.

GRAND—"The First World War" with Clark Gable, Joan Crawford, Robert Montgomery, etc., at 11:30, 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30. Midnight show at 11:30.

PARKWAY—"Here Is My Heart," with Clark Gable and Kitty Carlisle, at 11:30, 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30.

RIALTO—"Broadway Bill," with Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy, and technicolor cartoons at 10:00, 11:30, 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30.

Second-Run Pictures
ALAMO—"I'm No Angel," with Mae West.

ALPHA—"Young and Beautiful," with William Haines.

TENTH STREET—"Circus," with Claudette Colbert.

Neighborhood Theaters
AMERICAN—"Two Alone," with Jean Parker.

BANKHEAD—"The Big Moment," with Jean Parker.

BROADWAY—"Affairs of Cellar," with Constance Bennett.

COLUMBIA—"Rafter Romance," with Ginger Rogers.

DEKALB—"The Circus Clown," with Joe E. Brown.

EMPIRE—"The Circus Clown," with Joe E. Brown.

FAIRVIEW—"When the Gods Destroy," with Shirley Temple.

HILAM—"New and Forer," with Shirley Temple.

LIBERTY—"We're Rich Again," with Marion Nixon.

KIRKWOOD—"I Like It That Way," with Gloria Stuart.

MADISON—"The Loves Me Not," with Ring Crosby.

PALACE—"Wagon Wheels," with Randolph Scott.

PONCE DE LEON—"Handy Andy," with Will Rogers.

TEMPLE—"One Night of Love," with The Moore.

RUBINOFF TO PLAY SPECIAL CONCERT AT WARM SPRINGS

Rubinoff and his violin arrive in Atlanta this morning to play a special concert at the Warm Springs hospital. He is making a special trip here from Miami to play exclusively for the Foundation patients.

Rubinoff had two days to spare between Miami and an engagement that opens in a New York theater this week and expressed himself as being very happy to be able to accept the invitation of Dr. Michael Hoke and Fred Botis to make the trip here for this concert.

Homer Phillips, his accompanist, accompanied by Mrs. Phillips, arrived in Warm Springs from New York last night.

Rubinoff has been awarded the gold cup for two years as being the most popular musician of the air. Last month he conducted the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra enlarged to 110 musicians. He plays and conducts on the air, in theaters and hotels throughout the country, makes records and motion pictures.

Rubinoff will motor to Warm Springs and return here in time to make a late afternoon train to New York.

GUARDSMEN REIGN OVER STRIKE ZONE

Continued From First Page.

The mayor of Rossville and Sheriff C. Keown, of Walker county, asked the governor, Sheriff Keown said workers had been intimidated by night riders.

After taking the five men into custody, the adjutant general said the concentration camp at Atlanta, in which he interned a number of strikers during the 1934 national textile strike, was still ready for use and that if necessary he would take unruly ones from here to the camp.

Many Cross Lines.

The Tennessee state line runs parallel to the mill about a hundred yards in front of the plant. Many of these at the mill moved across the line into Tennessee when the military began to make arrests.

Soon after there came sharp worded jibes for the guardsmen and many references to "tin-soldiers."

The workers have been out on strike some time. Union employees quit because of a 10 per cent wage reduction.

Union leaders and mill officials tonight went ahead with their plans for tomorrow when the management plans to open with newly recruited workers under protection of guardsmen.

Alexander McKeown, of Philadelphia, first vice president of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, said tonight that he had instructed pickets to continue their activity.

"We will continue to picket the mill," he said, "and we will attempt to stop outside workers from coming in if we can do it peacefully."

McKeown said the presence of troops, in his opinion, would only create sympathy for the strikers and would bring out more workers from the mill.

McKeown said 500 of the normally 1,200 employed were striking. But there was a different estimate from J. Harvey Wilson, mill superintendent, who reported only 75 were in the walkout.

The mill superintendent said that even with the reduction the workers were getting above the average pay and above the code. He said the cut was forced by bondholders and trustees of the mill.

Wilson expressed the belief that 85 per cent of the employees wanted to work.

The troops began moving to Rossville from Marietta, a short distance from Atlanta and home of Adjutant General Camp, at an early hour. The trucks are new and progress was not as swift as usual for a troop movement.

As they passed through LaFayette, the county seat, Sheriff Keown joined the caravan and accompanied them here.

Streets Soon Thronged.

On arrival there were only a few persons at the mill and the streets almost were deserted, but it was a matter of moments before the streets thronged with villagers who poured from their homes to see the guardsmen.

Traffic was at a standstill for a few minutes until policemen took a hand.

Within a short time the soldiers had reached the millsite and established headquarters in an unused mill building adjacent to the main plant.

There was no direct line of communication between the strikers and the fixed bayonets and took no positions around the mill property. Jeers, however, soon came and were followed by arrests.

"No disorder will be tolerated," the adjutant general warned.

"Flying Squadron" Present.

Included among the military units was the adjutant general's personal command "flying squadron" which played a prominent part in preventing serious disorders in Georgia during last year's national textile strike.

The unit is composed of eight fast automobiles. Each carries four guardsmen equipped with tear gas, riot guns and rifles. The men are selected for their fearlessness.

HENRY G. WELLS DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Was for Many Years Prominent in Insurance Field in City.

Henry Goldsmith Wells, widely known throughout Georgia as an insurance executive, died at 7 o'clock Sunday night at a private Atlanta hospital as the result of a heart ailment in the head inflicted December 26. He was 52.

He was visiting his mother, Mrs. C. H. Wells, in Stone Mountain when he was shot himself. He was brought to the hospital here and pneumonia later developed and caused his death.

Mr. Wells had resided in Pensacola, Fla., for the last four years and was connected with the Mutual Life Insurance Company there at the time of his death, but previously he had spent many years in the service of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company.

He was a member of the old insurance firm of Palmour & Wells, which was state agent for the Connecticut company for 10 years prior to 1912.

Oscar Palmour was his associate and they handled the business of their company throughout Georgia.

After graduating from the University of Georgia in the class of 1902, Mr. Wells came to Atlanta and resided here until 1912. His family is prominent here.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Roscoe Wells, and four sons, H. G. Jr., William, Gordon and Albert G. Wells, all of Pensacola. Funeral arrangements are to be announced.

Waycross Ends Year With Cash in Bank

WAYCROSS, Ga., Jan. 6.—The city of Waycross achieved a remarkably fine record during 1934. The report of the city manager, Walter E. Lee, shows these facts:

Waycross closed 1934 with all current obligations paid, no city debt, a penny except bonded debt, and with $41,354.32 in cash in the bank.

Without getting off the cash basis the city expended during 1934 a total of $24,950.31 on extraordinary and permanent improvements.

During the year the tax rate was reduced one cent, the state council allowed for prompt payment of taxes was increased, and the water rates were reduced.

TEXTILE UNION HEAD SPEAKS AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Workers were advised here today by Francis T. Gorman, first vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, that through organization only will they receive the benefits to which they are entitled under the New Deal.

Gorman, speaking at the final session of the two-day convention of the representatives of local unions of the U. T. W. A. in Georgia, asserted that textile workers over the country are better organized now than ever before in the history of the organization.

Other speakers were: J. Ralph Gay, Augusta, president of the state council; George Googe, Atlanta, representative of the American Federation of Labor, and John A. Peel, third vice president of the U. T. W. A.

IL DUCE AND LAVAL REACH AGREEMENT

Continued From First Page.

Austria's neighbor powers were invited to underwrite this declaration.

The second pact on which Laval and Mussolini have reached accord is a treaty of non-interference, to be signed by five powers including Austria, or by six if Germany is willing.

This pact, which Italy, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia are to be invited to enter, calls for non-intervention of any one of the powers in the internal affairs of any of the others.

Aimed Against Terrorism.

In effect it strengthens Austria's independence without putting Austria in the embarrassing position of having her independence guaranteed. It is also aimed against international terrorism.

In the colonial section of the Franco-Italian negotiations, the chief obstacle is understood to be the question of Tunis. Italy demanded many concessions for the 100,000 Italian citizens living there.

Laval so far has been inclined to grant them. However, he must first submit the agreement to the French parliament and it was understood he fears that too many concessions might inspire opposition from parliament, even to the extent of bringing about downfall of the government.

This afternoon Prince Beniamino Ludovisi, governor of Rome, gave Laval a splendid reception in the ancient capital building.

Walker Camp Killed In Auto Accident

WEST POINT, Ga., Jan. 6.—Walker Camp, manager of the Hardy Coal Company here, was killed and his wife seriously injured in an automobile accident Sunday morning on the highway between LaGrange and Grapeland.

Mr. and Mrs. Camp were en route to LaGrange to visit a brother when Mr. Grant lost control of the automobile, which crashed into an embankment. While they were attempting to extract themselves from the wreckage of their automobile, another car, unable to stop, struck them, according to reports.

Mrs. Camp was taken to a Newnan hospital and later transferred to LaGrange.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Camp will be announced.

Macon Store Robbed During Rush Hour

MACON, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Two armed bandits walked into the Pogue Hardware shop on Cherry street here early last night, rifled the cash register of Saturday's receipts, robbed three saleswomen, and disappeared into the street in a swarm of last-minute shoppers.

"I hate to relieve you of this money," a six-foot, well-dressed young man declared as he thrust a large pistol into the hand of the cashier, Mrs. Ann P. Cloud, store manager, and forced her to empty the cash register.

Mrs. Cloud could not say tonight how much had been taken from the cash register, but believed that the amount was fairly large, as it was the day's receipts.

Purses and contents taken were valued at about $75, including about $33 in cash, she said.

City detectives said that it was the most daring hold-up attempted here in more than a year.

VALDOSTA KIWANIS INSTALLS OFFICERS

VALDOSTA, Ga., Jan. 6.—Planning its year's work along constructive lines the Valdosta Kiwanis Club has passed into the hands of new officers for 1935, with L. H. Tillman, cashier of the Citizens & Southern National bank, as president.

Officers installed this week were John W. Lanister, first vice president; Dr. J. F. Mixson, second vice president; B. M. Barrett, Rev. Arthur D. J. Eyles, Jr., Durrenberger, Mayor J. D. Ashley, M. M. Beale, A. C. Larissey and Redden Farmore, directors.

Friday night, January 18, has been selected as ladies' night, and the dinner will be served at Hotel Daniel Ashley.

MILLERS TO RETURN TO WAYCROSS SOON

WAYCROSS, Ga., Jan. 6.—Bill and Carrie have decided to move back home.

This is the welcome news to Waycross announced today by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Miller.

Mrs. Miller is Caroline Miller, author of "Lamb in His Bosom," winner of the Pulitzer and Prix Femina Heuresse awards.

Mr. Miller is convalescing from a recent illness.

State Deaths And Funerals

MARION B. DAILEY.

QUITMAN, Ga., Jan. 6.—Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at Phillips church, north of Quitman, for Marion Butler Dailey, prominent Brooks county farmer, who died at a hospital in Favo. He was 67 years old and was a native of this county. In September Mr. Dailey cut his foot severely with an ax and his death was due to this accident. He was highly respected in the county and is survived by the following brothers and sisters: John and Robert Dailey, Leesville, La.; Miss Annie Dailey, Quitman; Mrs. S. W. Ingram, Barney.

12-day Cruise-Tour MEXICO Via VERA CRUZ 6days MEXICO CITY and VICINITY ALL EXPENSES $125

VACCARO Line
STANDARD FRUIT & STEAMSHIP COMPANY
NEW ORLEANS LOUISIANA

LA. BODY FORMED TO BATTLE LONG

Immediate Repeal of Dictatorial Laws Demanded of Allen.

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A mass meeting of several hundred citizens here tonight formed a permanent organization to fight Senator Huey P. Long's dictatorship, heard "hanging" suggested for state officials and demanded that Governor O. K. Allen "call a special legislative session in 10 days to repeal every dictatorial Louisiana law."

A similar mass meeting was held last night by Standard Oil Company employees to protest Senator Long's tax of five cents a barrel on oil, but took no action after Long reported an agreement had been reached.

Tonight's group, composed mostly of Standard Oil Company employees, reaffirmed the formation of the "Square Deal Association" and invited citizens of surrounding parishes to attend another mass meeting here Wednesday night in the interest of "clean and upright government."

Thirty-two laws passed at the December special session of the legislature, including the oil tax, are scheduled to go into effect at noon Wednesday.

The crowd howled down a suggestion to make the special session demand ouster of Long as the state's dictator, insisting that Governor Allen, whom speakers described as a "puppet" was the only one to lay the demand before.

"We are not asking this, we are demanding it," declared Ernest Rouze, president of the "Square Deal Association."

When the group first decided to wear blue shirts as a sign of unity, purpose, and later changed to buttons for insignia instead, James L. McHaffey, who said he was not an oil worker, declared he didn't "think much of the blue shirts, but I'd wear a six-gun and a button."

"Out west, they hang men on telephone poles," he said.

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac."

ley Jones, of Macon; State Membership Chairman Ben T. Watkins, of Macon; Area Commander A. B. Morris, of Cordelle; Judge James B. Park, of Greensboro, and Senator Joe Ben Jackson, of Gray.

SORE THROAT MUST GO with THOXINE on the job

THOXINE
FOR COUGHS & SORE THROAT

TRAVEL BARGAINS

Low one-way coach fares on sale daily from Atlanta to:

Athens $1.10
Baltimore 11.02
Birmingham 2.51
Cadartown .91
Elberton 1.62
Greenwood 2.32
Memphis 6.31
New York 17.72
Norfolk 8.96
Portsmouth 8.96
Philadelphia 14.46
Raleigh 6.33
Richmond 8.15
Southern Pines 5.32
Washington 9.58

Proportionate fares to other points. Reduced 15-day and 6-month round-trip tickets.

COTTON STATES SPECIAL
A completely air-conditioned train with coaches, dining, lounge, sleeping cars, leaves Atlanta 6:55 P. M., C. T.; Emory 7:15 P. M., C. T.

CLARK HOWELL
Editor and President
CLARK HOWELL, JR.
Vice President and General Manager
W. H. TROTTER
Business Manager

Entered at the Postoffice at Atlanta as second-class matter.
Telephone Walnut 6555.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
By Carrier: 10c per copy; 10c per copy; 10c per copy.
By Mail: 10c per copy; 10c per copy; 10c per copy.
By Mail: 10c per copy; 10c per copy; 10c per copy.

KELLY-SMITH COMPANY, national representatives, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta.

The Constitution is not responsible for advertisements or for the return of unsolicited material. It is not responsible for the return of unsolicited material.

ATLANTA, GA., JAN. 7, 1935.

MAYOR KEY SETS A RECORD

When Mayor Key today begins his new term of office he will have served as head of the city government longer than any other chief executive in the history of the city.

The city has been fortunate in having at the head of the municipal government during the trying years of financial depression a man so intimately familiar with his responsibilities, of such marked ability and who has devoted himself so single-mindedly and earnestly to the enforcement of economy in the conduct of the public business.

No mayor in the country has a more outstanding record of successful and valuable service during the past five years, when public revenues have been growing smaller and smaller, than Mayor Key. Many of the cities of America have been brought face to face with bankruptcy, others have added to the burden carried by their taxpayers and in still others governmental efficiency has been markedly lessened.

Atlanta has suffered from none of these governmental evils chiefly because of the wise and determined efforts of its veteran chief executive.

The record set up by Mayor Key during these trying years is all the more remarkable in that he has had to fight, practically continuously, with a council unwilling, because of selfish political reasons, to apply business principles to the conduct of the public business.

It has not been a welcome task, nor a politically expedient one, for the mayor to insist upon the sweeping economies necessary to keep the city's expenditures within its revenues, but he has never wavered in his determination to maintain the credit of the municipal government.

As a result he has incurred the enmity of many who, either selfishly or blindly, have differed with his economy program. It is all the more the duty, therefore, of the taxpayers of the community, and all those who believe that business principles should be applied to the conduct of government, to give recognition to the outstanding and skillful manner in which Mayor Key has acted to protect the city treasury from the raids attempted upon it.

Atlanta has much to be thankful for in that a time of such universal governmental stress it has had so able and conscientious a man at the head of its municipal affairs.

WELCOMING HARMONY

There will be universal gratification that the affairs of Steiner clinic, after having been involved in controversy for a long period, were marked by complete harmony during the past year.

For years Steiner was a bone of contention, with almost constant friction existing between its own board of directors, the Grady board and members of the medical fraternity in Atlanta.

Finally it was dissociated from outside influences of all kinds and placed under the direct supervision of a committee headed by Councilman John A. White. Under his skillful and diplomatic direction there was an immediate and permanent elimination of controversies.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Democracy of Islam.

A man may be a prince, a grand vizir, or the wealthiest merchant in town—in the mosque he takes his place next to the humblest beggar. This is a remnant of the original egalitarian character of the Mohammedan religion. Outside the mosque, though, the class and caste lines are even more sharply drawn than in Europe and America. Even so, in the house of God earthly possessions do not count. Before Allah all heads (believers) are, in theory at least, equal. No expensive front seats, no sculptured family pews, no parading up the aisle with pomp and circumstance by the local prominent. In the first place, there are neither seats, nor pews, consequently no aisles and no ushers. The believers line up in the way soldiers sometimes line up for parade, in long serried ranks facing the east. You take your place next to the last man who entered before you, be he the pasha or some leprous beggar. That is the system.

When you visit a mosque in a real sense, I mean, not a half-Europeanized quarter (which is not as easy as it looks), you notice with astonishment that all men are dressed alike. Of course the one man's clothes may be newer than his neighbor's, but they are all of uniform design and made of the same material. All men wash their feet at the same fountain before entering. There is not one fountain for the rich and another for the poor. But that is where the contrasts begin.

TRADE TREATY WITH BRAZIL

Announcement that the consummation of a reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Brazil is imminent brings to the fore again the efforts being made by the democratic administration to rehabilitate the American export trade through the medium of such treaties.

So confident is the government that other nations will welcome the opportunity to place their trade relations with the United States on a new and more businesslike basis that Dr. C. T. Murchison, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, in a recent address predicted that trade treaties will soon be consummated with Haiti, Colombia, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Belgium, Sweden and Spain. He commented that "the machinery of negotiation has now emerged from the experimental stage and we can now anticipate with reasonable certainty increasing momentum to our export trade through trade treaties."

This able federal official, who is intimately familiar with trade conditions in every part of the world, predicts further that "not only will our export interests be the chief beneficiaries from the accelerated flow of commerce, but the revitalization is the key to the world recovery program."

The reciprocal treaties are based on the fundamental principle that if other countries are to be able to buy from us, we must buy from them. It was the failure to realize this, and the erection of high tariff walls by republican administrations, that was mainly responsible for the upsetting of world economic conditions in the decade preceding the depression.

Commenting upon the new attitude toward international commerce, Dr. Murchison points out that we have wisely learned that we must—

Be willing to pay the price for the opportunity of exporting. We have habitually considered imports as a burden, as cutting into our own domestic wealth. Actually, more income accrues to this country from the sale of many imported articles than from the export of articles of equivalent value at retail. Since we cannot isolate ourselves from world trade, let us rather deal with it in such ways as will make world trade serve us best.

The type of agreement to which the United States will be party precludes the type of maneuvering between countries parties to the contract that has heretofore superinduced a virtual paralysis of world trade. This fait accompli of world trade. This fait accompli of world trade. This fait accompli of world trade.

Although the reciprocal treaty with Cuba has been in operation for only a short time it has already brought tangible evidence that it will stabilize and increase trade between this country and the island republic.

The new treaties should put our foreign trade relations on a far sounder basis than ever before, and give marked impetus to the campaign to gain back the $5,000,000,000 trade that before the depression was giving employment to more than a million men, but which had shrunk by 1933 to less than $2,000,000,000.

Now that Germany has forbidden the heckling of public speakers, there will be no way to stop a gas attack.

It's not a sign of intelligence to be musical, says an authority. Yes, some folks are too intelligent to try to sing.

Lawlessness is decreasing. There were 15 persons lynched in 1934, and the Dean brothers made a vaudeville tour without being mobbed.

It's dangerous to try to have some horse-play with your horsepower.

A fool-proof dance step has been started. Well, that's a step in the right direction.

"Human Being's Body Works Like Broadcasting System."—Headline. You mean tongue.

Some enemies kiss and make up, but the modern girl has to make-up after being kissed.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

REAL MEANINGS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—One of President Roosevelt's best shushmen has shushed off the New Deal.

Even before the president delivered his congressional message, this phantom but unquestionable authority passed the advice around that anyone who interprets the message as the beginning of the end of the spending era will soon find himself wrong.

What Mr. Roosevelt really had in mind was security, not retrenchment. What he intends to do is to drive for secure national resources, lives, homes and incomes. The limitation of expenditures will be secondary, a sort of if-and-when purpose, which may or may not get mislaid for a while in the reshuffle.

This interpretation may be something of a snowball down the back of the neck for those who rose up to cheer the president's assertion that the federal government must and shall quit this business of relief.

However, you will receive confirmation of it when you get a squint at the new budget. You will see there that the government is reorganizing relief on a sounder basis, but that "curtailment" is hardly the word for it.

You can curtail an idea with words, but you cannot curtail a hungry stomach with anything except food. Until they start giving food away, it will still cost money, federal or private.

BUDGET The inner criticism of Mr. Roosevelt's speech was that it was vague. Even democratic congressmen, who lauded it publicly as a great state paper, observed sotto voce that they could not figure out what Mr. Roosevelt was going to do.

What they wanted to know was how much he is going to spend on his program if he administers it conservatively and spends little, that will be one thing. But if private business fails to absorb the unemployed and he tries to spend twenty-one or twenty-six billions (suggested by the natural resources board) the program will have a directly opposite meaning.

There is something now that the murmurers say, but they do not understand or appreciate the Roosevelt technique. They made exactly the same criticism of his initial message to congress, but if you go back and read it today, it does not sound as vague as it did then.

The truth is the president does not tell all he knows in his message to congress.

PLAN There are good reasons for believing that Mr. Roosevelt now has in mind a very specific and virtually completed plan.

Interior Secretary Ickes and Reliance Hopkins have in their pockets right now a definite list of projects which might be undertaken. This list is specific enough to dispel the doubts of the congressional murmurers, but they will not get a chance to see it for a long while yet.

It involves less money and fewer projects than the published report of the natural resources board. But the report of the board has been the guide in selections tentatively made and is worth reading.

The plan actually has advanced so far in Mr. Roosevelt's mind that he has been angling for men to take the job. The man is Frank Walker, who formerly was co-director. Whether Walker can spare the time from his private business has not yet been determined, but there would be little surprise among the insiders if his appointment was announced, say about February 1.

PURPOSE The hidden purpose of Mr. Roosevelt's vagueness is now the same as when he delivered his original message. He has laid down a broad program and is sitting back to see the reaction. He can later shift 50 degrees to the right or left within the boundary of his broad program, depending on the necessities of the relief situation, the amount of money available, the public reaction, or any other considerations.

His political opponents are bewildered. They cannot attack something they cannot now see. Later when they begin to see Mr. Roosevelt move, they will probably find it difficult to hit a target which can shift 50 degrees in either direction.

Practical politicians and statesmen are already marveling among themselves at the cleverness of it. They wonder that no one thought of it before.

FIGURES You will not find it among the published figures of the natural resources board, but the board has a definite breakdown on its ten-year program expenditures as follows: Federal public works 3.5 billions; state public works 9.7 billions; city public works 7.6 billions; county public works 300 millions and lowest housing 500 millions. That makes 21.5 billion dollars in all. Of course, the federal government would have to lend most if not all of the money because the states, counties and cities are in extremely bad financial condition generally.

NOTES Some people grumbled because the president did not mention the 18 or 19 millions on relief, but grouped them as five million heads of families. The five-million figure is correct, and from the New Deal standpoint, it sounds better. The accepted method is to figure one head of a family for every four persons on relief.

The only big point which failed to draw applause as Mr. Roosevelt read his message the other day was the line that care of the one and one-half million permanently unemployed is a local responsibility.

There is no question about the spiritual recovery around Washington. Night clubs are springing up as thickly as in New York, although this never was a night-life town before. Waiters raise their noses at anything less than a quarter tip and personal services are getting slipshod again. All of which are unmistakable signs of returning prosperity.

(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon.)

It Is Treason To Harm Your Country Unless You Do It for Profit

—By Robert Quillen—

When rheumatic old diplomats fail and reason gives place to force, it is taken for granted that the fighting should be done by young men in their prime.

These are marched away to butcher and be butchered while less fit and older men remain at home to make the tools of war and incidentally make a profit.

That some make more profit than others is no indication of less ardent patriotism. Each makes what he can, whether in the form of dividends or wages.

But since the many make little while the few make much, the majority feel free to condemn profiteers.

It is a just condemnation. There is no shadow of a reason why one citizen should be encouraged to fight while another remains free and safe. It is an evil system that penalizes youth for being young.

Because of its obvious injustice, so clearly seen when the fighting is over, there is little opposition when the surviving heroes make their first organized demand for compensation. The majority of those who remained at home are aware that a gift to veterans will cost them little, and the rich, who must foot the bill, cannot debate effectively with their hands full of wartime profits.

But once the treasury doors are opened by gratitude, they are held open by politics forever thereafter. The compensation offered by justice becomes an annual tribute to force.

A wrong cannot be made right by means of another wrong. And nothing good can grow out of a principle that is evil.

The whole fault is in the premise that patriotism is the peculiar obligation of one group. When all are treated alike, none can claim adjusted compensation.

If citizenship obligates one man to give his person and his life, which are his most precious possessions, surely it obligates all men to give all possessions. It is money more precious than life!

If the soldier deserves only $30 a month, then pay the same $30 a month to the farmer, the banker and the manager of a railroad.

It is a crime against nature to conscript the soldier and not conscript men for safer duties.

(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon.)

Chicagoan Arrested In Tampa Gem Theft

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A man listed by police as Jerry Malone, Chicago, was taken into custody at St. Petersburg tonight for questioning in the $100,000 jewelry robbery of the Jefferson Loan Society Friday night, and was to be brought here.

He was detained on request of Chief of Detectives Douglas D. Bush, who said he expected to question several others in the case.

Meanwhile, A. J. Rodriguez, manager of the office, was still detained while officers checked his story that he was kidnapped, forced to open the safe and then taken to a woods near here and tied to a tree by two robbers.

With rescue operations in full swing, details of how the Havana struck the shoal were held for later telling.

Among the Havana's complement were 66 passengers and crew. Proceeding.

Most of the passengers, who had expected to reach Havana tomorrow, were from New York City. Five girls from Bennington College, Bennington, Vt., were aboard, as well as residents of Philadelphia, Newark, N. J.; Boston and various New England cities.

The tug Warbler left Key West to haul the Havana, off the reef. Captain Peterson, who lives in Brooklyn, notified the tug there was water in the engine room and all steam had been cut off. The tug was not

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Daily Prayers. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 6.—The Senate in Congress.

States congress are opened with prayers by the official chaplains, of whom there is one in the regular establishment of each house. These prayers are the official supplications of the United States government. They are paid for by the taxpayers and published in the record, which stands as legal proof that the legislative branch of the nation has not missed daily prayers. In the legal meaning of the term, "Day" is a long, long time. Perhaps the statesmen have never missed their official prayers on any legislative day since the government was founded. The record would show it and, in case of any dispute, the record would have to be accepted.

However, there is an interesting distinction between an official legislative day and an ordinary 24-hour day. An official day in the senate or house of representatives may last as long as a month, or conceivably, a year and frequently does last for many ordinary days. If the members decide not to adjourn at the end of the day's deliberations under divine guidance, like a recess in school, their next meeting is deemed to be merely a resumption of the last previous one. The original invocation is held to cover the requirements of the case. In this manner, the statesmen may prolong a day indefinitely and may claim with absolute parliamentary authority that they addressed themselves to their Creator this very day, though a week ago.

Chaplains The chaplain of the senate is the Rev. Ze Barney Phillips, D. D., Episcopalian. Ze Barney is correct and not a misprint. The chaplain of the lower house is the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., Methodist. The pay for the position is $1,850 per year, now temporarily reduced to $1,540 but likely to be increased again in the course of the present session.

In the case of a recess on the part of his house, the chaplain attached to the senate or house need not report for duty again until there has been an adjournment. He can check up on that in the papers, however. The uncertainty whether the statesmen will recess or adjourn until there is a day requires a chaplain to remain on hand and precludes the making of any extensive plans for several consecutive days off.

Mr. Phillips, for example, is bolder than the statesmen and not averse to complain of a similar uncertainty, wishing that all the open dates and rainy days in a baseball season would end end-to-end. Still, Mr. Phillips also said that he would work from 2 till 5 when he did work and to add, "You can't beat him hours."

The chaplain is on duty only 15 or 16 minutes per legislative day. The statesmen like them to make it snappy.

Office Non-Partisan. The office of chaplain is non-partisan, though elective, and the personal political beliefs of the incumbent are held to have no bearing on his fitness. The Reverend Doctors Phillips and Montgomery, for example, are holdovers from the administration of President Hoover. Mr. James Farley, who has searched high and low for positions in which to install deserving democrats, has had a word to say about this. He said that he would like to see either of them. For that matter, they may be despising themselves as their politics presumably were not investigated when they were appointed.

Their place in the official establishment is rather indistinct as to rank, although the house of representatives may have a problem of precedence in mind today in re-electing Doctor Montgomery for another term. The house elected a clerk, a sergeant-at-arms, a doorkeeper, and then Doctor Montgomery, in the order named. It is an unpleasant duty to report, however, that when Doctor Montgomery was up for re-election by a vote of 300 to 10, the dissenting vote was cast. At the chair's suggestion there was a large volume of "eyes" endorsing Doctor Montgomery's administration.

Everybody looked, but as this was not a record vote no note was made of the incident.

Effect Of Service. It would be impious, of course, to say what effect is achieved by the chaplains in the very earnest and sonorous official supplications to which the members always bow their heads with a show of reverence. It would be happy thought that in such moments all of them were deeply moved and resolved to see the nation as God gives them the light to see their duty and the power to perform it. But the deep echoes of the minister's voice could not be heard away in the well before they were hushed by the same old statesmen at it again. It has thus been found impossible to Christianize the statesmen for more than a few seconds for $1,850 or $1,540 a year.

(Copyright, 1934, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Child Labor Ban Group Holds Bill Still Valid

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A newly formed national organization today took issue with the special American Bar Association committee's stand that unreasonable delay had invalidated future ratification of the proposed child labor amendment.

The group, known as the national child labor committee, asserted ratification still would be valid and announced it would work to obtain favorable action in the 24 state legislatures that will consider ratification this winter.

SOLOMON H. RICE, 84, PASSES AT HOME HERE

Solomon H. Rice, widely known retired Atlanta businessman, died Sunday morning at his residence at 1098 North avenue N. E. at the age of 84.

Funeral services are to be conducted by Dr. David Marx at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Sam Greenberg and Company, and burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Milton S. of Atlanta, and Harold S. Rice, of Dayton, Ohio, and three grandchildren, Miss Marie Helen Rice and Miss Florence Bettie Rice, of Atlanta, and Harold S. Rice Jr., of Dayton.

The Havana, a 6,675-ton vessel, served as a troop transport during the World War and was rebuilt in 1927 at a cost of more than $1,000,000. She was constructed originally in 1907 at Philadelphia.

Enforcement Agencies in California Unite To Intercept "Smugglers."

CALEXICO, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A network of law enforcement agencies was spread over southern California today, but in its meshes was found a fleet of fast trucks and automobiles believed to carry guns and ammunition to would-be revolutionaries in Mexico.

Local officials believe the smugglers, reported traveling in five trucks and big automobiles, may try to cross the border at some point along the 300-mile stretch running from San Diego on the coast to eastern Arizona.

In Los Angeles, the United States attorney, Pierson Hall, and department of justice agents, checked lists of wholesale arms and munitions manufacturers in an effort to find out if there had been any unusual purchases of late.

5 Yugoslavians Die In Mine Landslide

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Five miners were killed, one seriously injured, when a great block of lead and zinc ore which fell unexpectedly today during blasting operations in the British-owned Trepcina mines.

HEATED CLASHES LOOM IN CONGRESS

Continued From First Page.

The senate tomorrow, where Senator Clark, democrat, Missouri, and Senator Huey P. Long, democrat, Louisiana, are to contest for the right to the floor and inheritance and for a fight for a $100,000 appropriation to enable the Nye committee to continue its munitions investigation. The "Kingfish" desired to make some dramatic remarks about the administration.

House Semi-Dole. The house was in a state of semi-dole for the first day, but bonus and emergency appropriation of $800,000 for relief purposes were rest- less.

Speaker Byrnes claims he has all but won bonus proponents hostile for the remainder of the session under new rules which make it difficult for minorities to secure floor votes. However, inflation and 30-hour-week crowd the speaker's plan to send legislation through that branch and send it to the house.

In addition, moves were afoot in the senate for additional heavy taxes on estates and inheritance and for an increase in appropriations for public works for relief purposes over the approximately $4,000,000,000 to be asked by Mr. Roosevelt.

Despite the harmonious start of the session, indications point to much debate and difference of ideas on the administration's social security program. Already members of congress are receiving protests over Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to eliminate the dole beginning February 10.

Leaders agreed that congress just now is in a mood to give Mr. Roosevelt what he wants on most issues. They also agreed, however, that a slump in business within the next few months or other developments could cause a formidable opposition to his proposals to appear.

Predict Session to July. Speaker Byrnes and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic leader, both said they expected congress to be in session until July. Much of the legislation, such as old-age pensions, unemployment insurance and other welfare endeavors to be undertaken, they noted, goes into uncharted fields as far as the federal government is concerned.

Because of the many and varying ideas, they claim, it will take some time to iron out differences. Care also must be taken, they stressed in their remarks, to legislate to avoid costly consequences.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, today urged federal aid to states to set up old-age pension systems.

Both said they expected congress to be in session until July. Much of the legislation, such as old-age pensions, unemployment insurance and other welfare endeavors to be undertaken, they noted, goes into uncharted fields as far as the federal government is concerned.

MRS. LEAH W. YANCEY, FORMER TEACHER, DIES

Mrs. Leah Woodliff Yancey, who was formerly a teacher in the Atlanta public schools, died Sunday morning at her home at 1319 Lucille avenue.

She was born in 1898 and had resided in Atlanta since 1901, taking an active part in church work. She is survived by her father, Walter A. Woodliff; a sister, Mrs. J. W. Stevens; and a nephew, James Stevens, all of Atlanta.

Funeral services are to be conducted by Dr. W. A. Shelton at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Feature Index

News of Georgia	3
Theater Programs	3
Editorial Page	3
Polemics	3
Dr. William Brady	3
"One-Way Street"	3
Comics	6
Sports Pages	8
Calibration on Bridge	9
Radio Program	9
Caroline Chatfield	9
In Georgia's Fields and Streams	9
Tarzan	11
Atlanta's Wants	11
Cross Sections	12

Paraguay Attacks Bulwark Of Bolivia's Rich Oil Fields

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Four corps of Paraguayan fighters, with a wedge pushed into the Bolivian line at La Pacho, and with important Fort Capirenda in their hands, pushed forward today in another drive against Bolivia's rich oil fields.

In this oil territory lies large concessions held by the standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

In addition to the capture of Fort Capirenda, one of two major strongholds in the Gran Chaco, Paraguayan dispatches reported several positions have been taken in the Ibibobo sector on the Pilcomayo river.

The Paraguayans claimed a wedge pointed into the valley south of Caranday, puts the latter stronghold in danger. Caranday, Lake Villa Montes, is an important base in the oil fields.

Despite the jubilant declaration of General Jose Estigarribia, chief of the Paraguayan forces, that the war was already won, the Paraguayan forces would throw their major resources into an elaborate and stout defense along the line west of Capirenda and in the vicinity of Villa Montes.

The Chaco front now has been shortened to a line 60 miles long, permitting greater concentration of forces than ever before in the war.

Warfare between the two South American nations, which began in November, was reported to have ended today.

Observers here said the

warfare between the two South American nations, which began in November, was reported to have ended today.

Observers here said the

CLASHES CLIMAX RALLIES IN SAAR

Huge Demonstrations End as Police Join in Melee; Several Injured.

SAARBRUCKEN, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Police reinforcements were rushed into action tonight to break up a series of serious clashes between Nazi and anti-Nazi adherents during two huge demonstrations preliminary to next Sunday's plebiscite on the troubled territory's future status.

Pistol shots rang out as dusk fell and the Hitlerite and anti-Hitlerite forces finished their demonstrations. German front leaders claimed several followers were wounded in street fights in which revolver shots were fired.

The anti-Nazi liberal front said the Nazis did the shooting. Tension increased with further outbreaks feared, despite the thousands of foreign troops patrolling the basin.

There were rumors the authorities were considering postponing the plebiscite, but these could not be confirmed.

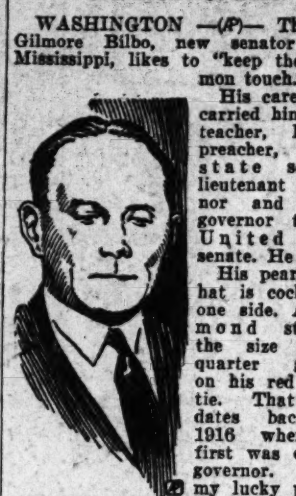

Police at Homburg tried to arrest a Nazi agitator. He escaped, firing four shots in the chase, all wide.

Several bombs exploded at Saarbrücken, without serious damage.

Frequent clashes occurred when Nazi bands tried to crash through the line of march of 90,000 anti-Nazi demonstrators, parading the streets of Saarbrücken following their mass meeting.

MEET the SENATOR

4. Theodore G. Bilbo.

THEODORE G. BILBO

Coal Train Wrecked By Illinois Dynamiters

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A dozen cars in a Chicago (Ill.) Midland train were plunged into a ravine north of here early today as a dynamite trestle crumbled under them.

Sheriff Luke Gauls said the blast was apparently touched off by professional bombers. It varied in technique from the four or five recent similar bombings of coal cars which have been attributed to an inter-union vendetta among coal miners.

In the absence of statements by railroad officials, Sheriff Gauls predicted the damage would total "at least $50,000." None of the train crew was injured in the blast and resultant wreckage, and at a late hour tonight no arrests had been made.

The blast, which shook houses in Central, completely demolished the 50-foot span. Deputy sheriffs said the bombers had apparently rigged up an ingenious mechanism on the trestle which permitted the weight of the train to touch off the dynamite.

No arrests have been made thus far in the recent series of bombings.

LEGION CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERSHIP LAUNCHED IN STATE

Delacey Allen, commander of the Georgia department of the American Legion, announced Sunday an intensive drive for membership would be held throughout the state this week.

The drive will end Sunday, January 13, with the visit to Macon of Frank Belgrano, national commander.

Allen said he hoped the drive would result in Georgia furnishing her quota of paid-up membership cards to the national commander.

He described the Macon rally next Sunday as "the greatest Legion rally in the history of Georgia." He asked all Legion posts in the state to send as many delegates as possible.

The Macon rally will start at 10 a. m. and close at 6 p. m. Belgrano will go to Macon from Washington where he has been directing the Legion's campaign for cash payment of the bonus.

Belgrano will be honored at Macon with an informal dinner at the close of the rally Sunday. Allen said he expected 4,000 to participate in the rally.

HAMILTON DEAD, U. S. AGENTS TOLD

Body Buried by Dillinger, Says Widow of "Baby Face" Nelson.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Times in a copyrighted story said today that Mrs. Helen Gillis, widow of George "Baby Face" Nelson, has given a "new" version of the fate of John Hamilton.

Mrs. Gillis, according to the newspaper, told federal agents that the notorious gun-beater for the late John Dillinger met death last May at the hands of a Hastings, Minn., deputy sheriff.

Hamilton's body, the newspaper account said, was secretly buried in quicklime at an undisclosed spot on orders of Dillinger in hope of confounding federal agents assigned to track down the mob.

With Homer Van Meter, later slain, Hamilton was returning to the Minnesota Twin Cities from a reconnoitering trip when the deputy sheriff became suspicious of their car and took up the chase, the newspaper said. Van Meter was reported to have been driving, with Hamilton asleep on the rear seat. A shot from the deputy's gun pierced the dozing gangster's abdomen, causing almost instant death, the newspaper reported.

The Times said the shots were fired by Deputy Sheriff Norman Dieter, of Hastings, Minn., who was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Joe Heinen when the Van Meter car was sighted near the Wisconsin line.

Eight Men Held at Bay Two Hours By Negro in DeKalb Filling Station

A negro, described by DeKalb Chief of Police W. C. Parker as "crazy drunk," who early Sunday morning held eight white men at bay for more than two hours in a filling station on the Covington road six miles east of Avondale, was in the DeKalb hospital Sunday night, a bullet wound in his leg and a charge of "rioting" hanging over his head.

The negro, according to Chief Parker, appeared at the filling station shortly after midnight Sunday morning, armed with a pistol and a shotgun and threatened to shoot any of the eight occupants who attempted to leave the station. When one of the men would attempt to leave the station, according to Chief Parker, the negro would fire at him and send him scurrying back to cover.

For more than two hours the negro, who gave his name as Joe Goolsby, 28, kept the men imprisoned.

One of the prisoners hailed a passer-by and told him to send the police. Chief Parker, Police Captain J. T. Dailey and Patrolman V. B. Hill, responded to the call and engaged in a four-man duel with the negro before one of the police bullets subdued him when it struck him in the leg.

Palm Reader Turns Diamond Into Glass

A woman fortune teller swindled Mrs. Fannie Mae Dabney, of 1720 Peachtree street, out of a diamond ring valued at $4,500 and a $20 bill, she reported to police.

Mrs. Dabney said the fortune teller, who gave the name of Mrs. Norman, came to her home Saturday to read her palm. Mrs. Norman said Mrs. Dabney would have good luck if she'd wrap her valuable ring in a $20 bill and tie both up in a handkerchief. This was done.

Mrs. Dabney said the fortune teller opened the handkerchief. In place of her ring was one which cost a dime encased in plain paper.

TORSO OF MAN FOUND IN SHALLOW GRAVE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The nude and headless torso of a man, believed dead less than 48 hours, was found in a shallow grave at Kosmosdale, 18 miles south of here, this afternoon.

Simultaneously with the finding of the torso, county police were notified of the disappearance of Buster Bratcher, 23, a farm hand. Patrolman W. J. Schroeder said he had been told by Jack Shipley, Bratcher's employer, that the latter had borrowed a dollar to go to a dance Monday night and had not been seen since.

Schroeder said it was possible the torso, apparently that of a person of medium height and weighing about 135 pounds, was that of Bratcher.

MURDERS, SUICIDE SEEN IN SLAYING OF THREE

MERCED, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—State Highway Patrolman Thomas H. Sheldon, 35, his wife and their 9-year-old son Richard, were found shot to death in their home today under circumstances which Detective Merle Moore said indicated double murder and suicide.

Moore theorized that Mrs. Sheldon, driven to desperation by ill health, had done the killing, using both her own pistol and her husband's service revolver.

Senators Are Polled For Bonus Veto Views

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The American Veterans' Association is polling all members of the United States senate on their attitude toward immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, Donald A. Hobart, national commander, announced tonight.

"Will you vote to sustain President Roosevelt provided he vetoes a bill for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus?" The association is questioning each senator.

The Veterans' Association is opposed to immediate payment.

REDEMPTION—DENTAL GOLD—FINS

GOLD

Redeeming Co.
118 Peachtree Ave.
U. S. Licensed

SAYS THAT YOUR OLD

GOLD

CAN BE TURNED INTO

MONEY

COME TO SEE US

Mail Orders Given Prompt Attention.
Highest Cash Prices. W. A. 1764.

118 PEACHTREE ARCADE

MADAM ZELLA

Palmetto Business Advisor

Will tell your past, your present, your future, call your name, tell the real cause of your misfortune, or lack of success. Satisfaction or no charge.

Hours from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M.

3071 PEACHTREE ROAD IN BUCKHEAD

Apparatus Measuring X-Ray Effect Found To Aid Cancer Treatment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A new aid to the treatment of deep-seated cancers and other ailments with high-voltage X-rays and radium rays, which shows that the rays will be affected by the radiation, was announced today by the national bureau of standards.

The new gauge measures these reactions accurately for the first time. It consists of two very fine aluminum screens made of wires about the size of a hair. These are held opposite each other about 1-32nd of an inch apart. To one screen is attached a 7,000-volt battery and to the other a sensitive electric current meter.

When the apparatus is immersed in the liquid and a stream of radium rays or X-rays is shot through between the screens, ions or charged particles are broken off from the atoms in the liquid and pulled over to the screens. There they are measured by the electric current they produce.

The size of this current shows how many of the rays are being absorbed by the atoms in the liquid. This shows how many would be absorbed in a diseased spot in a human body and consequently how useful the rays would be in treating it.

how many of them will be absorbed by the diseased area, and how many will be scattered by body atoms. Rays sometimes are shunted back to the diseased spot by atoms in the tissues beyond it.

The new gauge measures these reactions accurately for the first time. It consists of two very fine aluminum screens made of wires about the size of a hair. These are held opposite each other about 1-32nd of an inch apart. To one screen is attached a 7,000-volt battery and to the other a sensitive electric current meter.

When the apparatus is immersed in the liquid and a stream of radium rays or X-rays is shot through between the screens, ions or charged particles are broken off from the atoms in the liquid and pulled over to the screens. There they are measured by the electric current they produce.

The size of this current shows how many of the rays are being absorbed by the atoms in the liquid. This shows how many would be absorbed in a diseased spot in a human body and consequently how useful the rays would be in treating it.

The instrument developed at the bureau of standards to overcome this handicap is used in conjunction with a new kind of artificial "human body." This is a liquid in which the atoms react to the passage of X-rays and radium rays in exactly the same way as in human tissue.

By immersing the measuring instruments in the liquid, it is possible to measure accurately the effects of the rays after they have penetrated any desired thickness of the "body." The fluid consists of a mixture of carbon bisulphide, tetrahydrofuran, and lignin.

To get an accurate idea of how effective the rays will be in treating the diseased spot, it is necessary to know

More Rainy Weather Forecast for Today

The skies will remain cloudy and occasional rain will fall in Atlanta today, according to the forecast of the United States weather bureau.

The weather man expects no great change in the temperature today from the moderate range of Sunday, when low was 43 and high 53 degrees.

SYNOD OF GEORGIA WILL MEET WEDNESDAY

Evangelism will be the theme of the eleventh annual all-day prayer conference of the synod of Georgia which will convene at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

Among the prominent speakers who will appear on the program are the following: The Rev. T. W. Simpson, moderator of the synod of Georgia, presiding over the conference. He is pastor of the First church, Brunswick; the Rev. Marshall C. Dendy, First church, Gainesville; the Rev. S. A. Carlidge, faculty, Columbia seminary, Decatur; Dr. J. S. Lyons, pastor, First church, Atlanta; Dr. W. R. Mackay, pastor, First church, Macon; Dr. P. P. McGee, pastor, Decatur Presbyterian church; the Rev. William Huck, superintendent, home missions and evangelism, Atlanta presbytery.

Dr. J. R. McCain, president, Agnes Scott College; the Rev. John McQueen, president, Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C.; the Rev. J. McPherson, president, Columbia seminary, Decatur; the Rev. Stuart R. Oglesby, pastor, Central church, Atlanta; the Rev. Paul M. Watson, pastor, First church, Griffin; the Rev. Peter Marshall, pastor, Westminster church, Atlanta; the Rev. M. M. MacFarrin, pastor, Green Street church, Augusta; Mrs. J. Audley Morton, Atlanta, and the Rev. R. S. Boyd, pastor, First church, Columbus.

2 GIRLS ARE DROWNED IN RIVER IN NEW YORK

CORTLAND, N. Y., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Two Cortland girls were drowned today in the Boughnonga river when they raced to retrieve a discarded Christmas wreath while playing along the icy bank.

The victims were Betty Montague, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Montague, and Pauline Rogers, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rogers.

Ban on Recognition Of Mexico To Be Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Representative Higgins, democrat, Massachusetts, said tonight that he would introduce in the house tomorrow a resolution calling for the withdrawal by the United States of recognition of Mexico and removal of Ambassador Daniels from the diplomatic corps.

Higgins' decision to take the Mexican situation to the floor of congress followed announcements by Secretary Hull that the Mexican government's educational policies was a purely internal matter in which the United States could not interfere.

Now You Can Wear FALSE TEETH With Real Comfort

FASTEETH, a new, pleasant powder, keeps teeth firmly set. Deodorizes. No gummy, rooky, pasty taste or feeling. To eat and laugh in comfort just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. Get it today at all drug stores.—(adv.)

Before closing this pleasant evening... which has been held in the interests of truth and brevity... may I say...

Long speeches have been made about this and that, but when it comes to a good cigarette, you can say it all in just a few words...

—they're Milder

—they TASTE BETTER

Chesterfield

10 CIGARETTES

© 1935, LORRETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

THE GUMPS—LOVE IS BLIND

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—PROFESSOR WARBUCKS

MOON MULLINS—BIRDS OF A FEATHER

DICK TRACY—Hot Ground

SMITTY—THE BLOCKADE

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER—

Constitution's Daily Cross-Word Puzzle

One-Way Street

BY JOSEPH McCORD

WHAT WAS GONE BEFORE: When Jean Sawyer is 17, her father, "Daddy Jack," is sent to prison for six years for using funds of the Gotham bank, where he is employed, to further margin his stock market account. He had made money at first, spending it to rear his family and educate his four children, of whom Jean was the eldest and his favorite. She sees a job collecting ads for the Gotham Times, with the assistance of Don Browne, her childhood chum, who is now covering police headquarters for the paper. She studies art at night, and her work attracts the attention of Emory Stewart, head of the dress department in the firm of Black, Garban & Co., the city's leading dressmaker. The day after the Cannon's daughter, Miss Mark Sturges, the new general manager, and in the afternoon, Jean Sawyer, is to see the Cannon home, she has her father order Stewart to discontinue "Daddy Jack" is to see her father in the evening. When Mark learns that her father is the cause, and Stewart has also been doing fine work as artist designer, Mark was her promise to think things over. He goes to Cannon, and finds that his contract calls for entire supervision of the personnel, and says he has no intention of leaving the office. Jean is convinced she must hold her job when her father tells her "Daddy Jack" is to see her after serving over four years. Her success will bolster him up. Edythe, the new imported cat for Mark to keep his son engaged. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XV.

"I treated myself to a new car the other day," he remarked casually. It's parked across the street. May I have the pleasure of taking you ladies wherever you're going."

"I hope to tell you," Nan fairly beamed at him. "You might as well find it out now as any time. My feet hurt—it's chronic."

"I think I'll walk home," Jean interposed. "It isn't far. Thank you just the same."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," Nan decided. Then she added wickedly. "You and Mr. Sturges can run me home first. I haven't given you a chance to visit with me yet."

"Of course," Mark agreed, ending the discussion by starting in quest of his car. He was back in a few minutes sitting behind the steering wheel of a gray coupe. "Which way?" he inquired, when his two passengers were stowed.

"To the shop for mine," Nan directed. "I've a two and a bath over it. Saves walking."

The trip up the avenue was quickly made and Sturges took his machine to a halt before the Le Salon Nanette.

"You have an attractive place," he observed.

"Not bad little dump," it's owner agreed. "Don't forget what I said about dropping in some day and looking us over. Good night, Georgetown. Very glad to have met you, Mr. Sturges."

"Thank you. And I'll remember that invitation, Miss Gable."

"Ohay."

"Isn't she fun?" Mark asked rather impulsively as he set the car in motion. "I like her."

"I'm glad," Jean said simply. "Nan is the best friend I have. When you really know her, she's rather—wonderful. I don't know what I would do without her."

Sturges gave a quick glance. The expression of her face had changed. It was alive, eager.

"I fancy you're rather loyal to your friends," he remarked abruptly. Then before she could answer: "Everything moving along all right on the job?"

"Oh, yes."

"Miss Gable seems to think you're overdoing a bit."

Jean laughed. "She was making fun of me."

"I feel relieved then, Miss Sawyer—I forgot to ask."

"Yes."

"Did you mean what you said about being in a hurry to get home tonight? Though perhaps you'd go for a little drive and see how this bus performs."

"Thank you, I'd love it. But I must go home."

"Sorry. Are we headed in the right direction?" I forgot to ask."

"It's the second street after this next one."

Mark lapsed into silence. He had wanted to have a talk with this girl, but he had been unable to find a pretexts she was holding him at a distance. Why, he wondered? His reflections were interrupted by a light touch on his arm.

"Please let me out at this corner, Mr. Sturges. It's a one-way street."

"So it is. Never mind. We'll drive around the square."

"Please don't. It's only a few steps for me," Jean had her hand on the door latch as she spoke, so Sturges swung his car over to the curb and halted it. She was out of the machine before he could leave his seat. "Thank you very much for bringing me home."

"You're all. Miss Sawyer, may I ask you about your father?"

"Of course."

"I was wondering if he had been able to establish any connection yet. Perhaps he hasn't tried."

"I'm afraid he hasn't." The brown eyes clouded a trifle.

"I'm rather a stranger here. But I have some acquaintances, of course. If there is anything I could do for Mr. Sawyer..."

"Daddy will appreciate your asking. So do it. Good night." She gave him a quick smile and hurried away, leaving him looking after her retreating figure. He believed he understood.

A glance about the nearest houses strengthened the impression. Miss Sawyer had been sensitive over the discovery of her home surroundings. As if that made any difference.

Sturges glanced up with a frown as his telephone sounded its subdued buzz. He placed the instrument to his ear, his hand going out for a pencil at the same time.

"Personal call, Mr. Sturges. Will you take it? Very well... there you are." The operator was putting it through in answer to his brief "All right."

"Hello," a voice drawled over the wire. "You sounded terribly cross then. You know who this is, don't you?"

"Of course. How are you, Miss Cannon?"

"All right. I'm also... Edythe. Try it again."

Mark's brows lifted. His mouth relaxed in a slight smile. Rather absurd... Operator listening in, most likely.

"How are you, Edythe?"

"That's much nicer. I hate to disturb you during hours, but I thought you'd better know you were coming over tomorrow night for your lesson."

"Lesson?" he echoed. "In what?"

"Contract, of course. The Bob Ridgeway are going to drop around. Suzanne is rather an expert... in more ways than one. She's been over meeting you. So be careful."

"That certainly is kind of you. I'm not quite sure..."

"You can find your way over, can't you?"

"Of course."

"I hear you have a new car, so I suppose you'll be driving. See you at eight. Bye."

There was a click. Silence. Mark sat without moving until a discreet inquiry from the operator recalled him. Suspiciously polite.

"Never mind," he said shortly. He

AUNT HET

"If playin' bridge is sinful, Amy needn't worry. It ain't no sin to drink if you just go through the motions." (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

SALLY'S SALLIES

Most married men would go out at night if they didn't have to come home again.

JUST NUTS

Now take a deep breath and say nine, three times!

Solution of Saturday's Puzzle

SARANAC CARGOES TRIVIAL ACORNIC RAVEL ACORNS NU ARES HILLED ISTI AR CAMELS WAITI AS GALLEY HOTEL AS CAVORT BARRIE DIARIES CORDONS ENNEAD GOSPEL ELDER TENSED RE PTON WESTER MBER MITR GRATTIN MBER STABIE PALES REBATES STEERED

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

CAPITALS OF EUROPE.

I—Athens, Greece.

(NOTE: This is a rapid journey through mid-Europe, from Athens to Brussels, and finally to London. Uncle Ray will give a few notes about his travels in Europe, but he will be busy presenting a history background for each city, along with up-to-date facts. School pupils may find the stories useful as topics in geography.)

Italy has Rome, a very old city; but Greece has Athens, which is even older!

Parthenon. The name "Parthenon" may be translated as "the virgin temple." It was given in honor of the Goddess Athena, who was supposed to guard over Athens.

After Greece turned to the Christian religion, the Parthenon was made to serve as a Christian church.

Thirty-four years before Columbus sailed to the New World, Athens was captured by the Turks; and the Parthenon was turned into a Mohammedan mosque. Two centuries later, the Turks used the Parthenon as a powder magazine during a battle, and there was an explosion which partly destroyed the building.

Even after the explosion, the Parthenon remained a wonder to visitors. Some of the beautiful marble columns were left standing; and during the past six years, several broken columns have been put together, and placed in the right position.

In days of old, Athens was a republic, but Greece fell under the rule of foreign nations. Parthenon, Rome, the Goths and Turkey. The people won freedom from the Turks only a little more than a century ago. Greece then became a kingdom.

After a popular vote in 1924, Greece was declared a republic, with Athens as the capital city.

The present population is about half a million.

The Athens of today, has a number of broad streets, and is modern in other ways. It is the home of two universities, as well as the national museum, the national library and the house of parliament.

(For Travel section of your scrapbook.)

If you want the free leaflet, "Questions and Answers About Europe," send a 3-cent stamped return envelope to me in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Uncle Ray

Tomorrow—Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

Use This Coupon to Join the Uncle Ray Scrapbook Club!

To Uncle Ray,

Care of The Atlanta Constitution,

Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Uncle Ray: I want to join the 1934 Uncle Ray Scrapbook Club, and I enclose a stamped envelope carefully addressed to yourself. Please send me a Membership Certificate, a leaflet telling how to make a Corner scrapbook of my own, and a printed design to paste on the cover of my scrapbook.

Name _____

Street or R. F. D. _____

City _____ State or Province _____

Atlanta Has Inside Track for U. S. Sweepstakes in 1936

Howell and Gipp Closely Alike, Coach Thomas Says

I remember a Saturday night, a decade ago, a cold wintry night when I wrote a head which read, "Snow and Ice Cover Grave of Gipp."

They had taken all that was mortal of George Gipp that day and buried him while a blizzard raged. And, to be exact about it, I recall there were some tears in my eyes writing that head; Gipp had been the greatest football hero of the new game which Knute Rockne had propelled upon the scene.

Last Friday night as the train bearing Alabama's Rose Bowl victors hurried through the last of more than 30 hours on Texas soil, Frank Thomas and I sat talking of George Gipp and Millard (Dixie) Howell. "They were both very much alike," said Thomas, comparing his halfback who had passed for two touchdowns and run for two more to beat Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

"They had the same sort of poise, the same sort of disposition for competition, the same sort of belief in themselves and their destiny which they called luck. Howell, when he feels it is his day, can't be stopped. Gipp was the same way.

"Howell gambles coolly. So did Gipp. They are very much alike. Howell kicks better and passes a bit better, but then kicking and the forward pass have come along since Gipp's day. Football has advanced a lot in every department in the past ten years. Gipp had it on Howell in drop-kicking, something Howell hasn't tried. But they each could pass, kick and run with the ball with more than average skill.

"I roomed with Gipp for a while and played summer baseball with him," said Thomas. "And I have coached Howell for three years. I think I know them both as well or better than anyone else. And I rank them as the two greatest backs the game has ever known. Perhaps Howell had a slight edge in defensive play and in kicking. But the game has come along since Gipp's time. But you can put them down as the two best halfbacks of modern football and stand off any arguments to the contrary."

MADE OR BORN?

"Howell," continued Thomas, "had to be taught to kick and pass but he had that change of pace and that feint with his hips and body.

"Some backs feint with their hips and others can feint with their entire body. Howell can do that. So can Don Hutson, the end, but his is a different type. He feints them out of position when he gets in position to catch those passes. Howell's is a feint which confuses a tackler who is moving in to try for him. Gipp had that.

"Can you teach a man that or is he born with it?" "Do you really have to ask?" said Thomas. "You know from looking at them season after season just how few have it. A coach can polish it up for a boy. But he comes into this world with it and if he hasn't it no amount of teaching can give it to him."

So that's that. Howell, of course, had shown himself to be the best passer in Dixie long before the Rose Bowl game. He showed it in the Georgia Tech game, against Georgia and Vanderbilt. And he had demonstrated he was as great a running back as the south had seen. He waited until January 1 to show 85,000 in person and to prove it to the whole nation as it listened in.

GREAT TO GET BACK.

It was great getting back to Atlanta. But it was difficult breaking away from all the fine friends who were on the trip to the coast. And getting to know the Alabama players was a pleasure. Never have I met a more gentlemanly, wholesome and fine lot of boys. Most of them are fine students. All of them are fine boys.

Perhaps the real heroes of the trip, in so far as the newspapermen were concerned, were Bill Peoples, the Southern Pacific traveling passenger agent, and "Cowboy" Rogers, the Western Union man who went along to handle the press material.

Bill Peoples handled three special trains and seemed to have the faculty of making each passenger feel that he, Peoples, was looking after him personally. He has a real genius for his business. All the passengers who made the trip with him are ready to nominate him for a high office with his company.

Cowboy Rogers, the Western Union representative, never slept until he had seen that every wire was handled. He remained up until late hours, getting off the press and personal messages. At Pasadena a press room was set up at the Huntington hotel with Rogers in charge. They both helped make the trip a success.

BACK TO THE CONSTITUTION.

There was no finer thrill of the whole trip than swinging through the doors of The Constitution, entering the elevator and coming up to the fourth floor and the old office.

A grand paper, The Constitution, with a great tradition of service extending across almost three-quarters of a century. And a great lot of fellows working on it. Missing the dinner for John T. Toler, who has given The Constitution a circulation of more than 100,000 daily, for the greatest circulation figures of any newspaper in the south, was a deep regret. A very fine gentleman, Mr. Toler, and the leader in his field just as he has made the paper the leader.

Trying to send him a telegram last Thursday almost cost this reporter either his life, a new suit or a day in Beaumont, Texas. He swung off the front Pullman at Beaumont to write out a wire only to discover the train had merely slowed for the station and was even then picking up speed. There was one door open—on next to the last Pullman. Catching that was a feat which made the daring young man on the flying trapeze look like a novice.

It is great to get back to Atlanta, the finest city in the world with the finest friends.

GOOD OLD JIMMY JONES.

His hair was tousled. He had a gleam in his eyes. His hands shook. He needed a shave. His face was red and his smile was broad.

"It's a girl," he said proudly, "even if I had already planned to purchase a football, a pair of boxing gloves and a baseball or so, it's a girl."

Whereupon he began to hand out the cigars.

Miss Jones arrived Sunday morning after an all-night vigil in which Mr. Jones claims to have suffered extensively and intensively.

Mr. Jones is just as happy at being the father of a sponsor instead of a football player, and has entirely recovered and is awaiting the day when he will bring his wife and daughter home. Both are doing well. Probably better than Mr. Jones.

GRANT, COURTS MOVE AHEAD IN MIAMI MEET

Bryan Wins by Default; Malon Defeats Jack Baxter.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Fire of the eight seeded American players and one foreign seeded entrant, Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, Canada, advanced to the final round in the opening of the third annual Miami Biltmore tennis championships here today.

No difficulty was encountered by any of the seeded stars as Rainville defeated E. Hoebe, of Miami, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0; Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., eastern clay courts champion, won from H. A. Burkland, of Miami, 6-1, 6-0; Bryan M. (Bitty) Grant Jr., of Miami, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0; and Phil Hitchenson, Orlando, Fla., by default; Frank Guernsey, Orlando, Fla., champion of Florida, won 6-3, and 6-1 from John Thompson, of Miami; Carroll Turner, Miami, defeated Dick Arend, Westfield, N. J., 6-0, 6-1; and Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla., former Florida state singles champion, advanced by default by Francis Farrey, of Miami.

The battle by the American Davis cup team prospects, in which Sidney B. Wood Jr., New York, also is included, for positions on the United States team will be continued tomorrow with second round matches.

In the other matches played today George Arrand, New York, defeated Richard Howell, Miami, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2; A. Bassford, New York, won from Robert James, Saratoga, N. Y., 6-1, 6-1; Marion Courts, Atlanta, Ga., defeated Jack Baxter, Cincinnati, Ohio, 6-1, 6-1; M. Mandell, Miami, defeated McAllister, Miami, 6-8, 6-1, 6-5; Frank J. Keady, N. Y., 6-3, 6-3; Edward M. Wood Jr., N. Y., 6-3, 6-3; W. H. Barnard, England, defaulted to John Nixon, Miami; Clifford Hunt, Miami, defaulted to James Ford, Miami; James McLachland, Miami, defaulted to Jarvis Adams, New York; Ray White, Miami, won by default from H. G. Lyman, Brooklyn; Roswell Lee, Miami, defaulted to George Pero, Miami; William Decker, Miami, defeated Charles Crandall, Miami, 6-1, 6-1; George Gallet, of Miami, defeated James B. Little, Miami, 6-1, 6-0; Gardner Mulloy, Miami, advanced by default from J. E. Leitch, Miami; Marvin Ginn, of New York, won from Grady Powell, Miami, 6-0, 6-3; Searle Barnett, Chicago, defaulted to Charles Harridge, of Orlando, Fla.; Don Thompson, Miami, defaulted to Carlton Shaffer, Hollywood, Fla., 6-1, 6-1; H. Glickman, Miami, defeated Gus Feuer, Miami, 6-2, 6-2; David Dodd, Cincinnati, defaulted to William McKibben, Miami, 6-1, 6-1.

Baer Meets Madden Next

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Max Baer, full of health, activity and inspiration since popping over the top in his exhibition bout to Boston this week in his exhibition tour. He will display his handsome figure Thursday night in a four-round exhibition bout with Dick Madden, a lightweight contender, at the Madison Square Garden.

Two ex-champions will see action this week. Max Rosenberg, former light heavyweight king, meets Al Stillman at St. Josephs, Mo., Monday night, and Tony Canzone, once the lightweight ruler, steps into the welterweight class to tangle with Eddie Ran, of Poland, at Newark, N. J., the same evening.

The national program: Monday: At St. Joseph, Mo., Max Rosenberg, New York, vs. Al Stillman, Detroit, light heavyweights, 10; New Orleans, Tracy Cox, Indianapolis, vs. Joe Barbara, Norfolk, Va., lightweights, 10; San Francisco, Joe Gholuly, St. Louis, vs. Baby Tiger Flowers, Omaha, lightweights, 10; at Syracuse, N. Y., Joe Brown, Syracuse, vs. Joey Izzo, Hartford, Conn., featherweights, 8; and Gene Emanuel, Syracuse, vs. Eddie Mark, New York, welterweights, 8; Albany, N. Y., Sid Cohen, Florida, N. Y., vs. Tommy Romano, Watervliet, N. Y., middleweights, 8; and Joe Gainer, Troy, N. Y., vs. Pennam Joe Brown, New York, light heavyweights, 8; Newark, N. J., Tony Canzone, New York, vs. Eddie Ran, Poland, welterweights, 10; Holbrook, Mass., Elmer Benzel, Holbrook, vs. Carlos Solomon, New York, welterweights, 8; and Ray Trueheart, Easthampton, N. Y., vs. Al Zappala, Lawrence, Mass., middleweights, 8; New York, Tony Falco, Philadelphia, vs. Izzy Janazzo, New York, welterweights, 10.

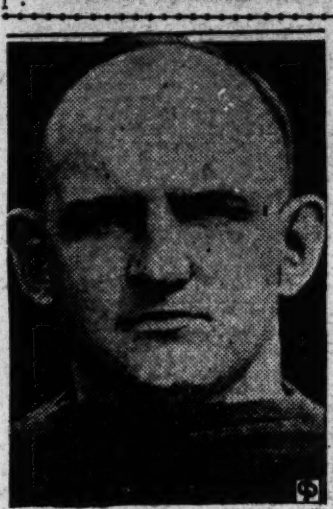

Tuesday: At Portland, Ore., Frankie Monroe, Lakeview, Ore., vs. Branding Iron Linn, Missoula, Mont., lightweights, 6; at West Palm Beach, Fla., Louis Charles, Charlotte, N. C., vs. Billy Shell, West Palm Beach, light heavyweights, 10.

Wednesday: At Oakland, Cal., Nash Garzon, Mexico City, vs. Frankie Hammer, Oakland, light heavyweights, 10.

Thursday: At Tacoma, Wash., Tommy Rice, Wilmington, Del., vs. Freddy Steele, Tacoma, middleweights, 10; Union City, N. J., Larry Williams, Jersey City, vs. Frank Zemor, Newark, middleweights, 8; Terre Haute, City, N. J., George Gibbs, Pittsburgh, vs. Paris Apple, Providence, R. I., lightweights, 8; Boston, Max Baer, Oakland, Cal., vs. Dick Madden, Boston, exhibition, 4; Al McCoy, Boston, vs. Don Petrin, Jersey City, light heavyweights, 10; Johnny Rossi, Worcester, vs. Al Diamond, Newark, middleweights, 10; New Haven, Conn., Lou Foster, Porttown, Pa., vs. Al Gainer, New Haven, light heavyweights, 12.

Friday: At Boston, Bob Olin, New York, vs. Fanie Tsanatosopoulos, Lynn, light heavyweight non-title, 10; Hollywood, Cal., Leo Rodak, Chicago, vs.

Harvard Coach

Harlow Named Head Coach Of Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP) Richard C. "Dick" Harlow, head football coach at Western Maryland since 1926, today was appointed head football coach at Harvard to succeed Eddie Casey.

The new head coach, who is 44 years old, was a star tackle at Pennsylvania State College from 1908 to 1911. He coached there from 1912 to 1921 and then went to Colgate, where he remained until 1926.

In announcing his appointment Athletic Director William J. Bingham said, "I am very happy that Mr. Harlow is the unanimous choice of the Harvard athletic committee. He comes to Harvard well qualified to coach our football team."

Harlow, who will have entire responsibility in selecting his assistants, will report in Cambridge for spring practice in March.

Western Maryland Wishes Harlow Well.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Robert Gill, chairman of the alumni athletic committee at Western Maryland College, said here tonight he and his associates were "very sorry" to see Head Coach Dick Harlow leave, but that "no one wishes to stand in his way."

Harlow's appointment as head football coach at Harvard came so suddenly, he said, that no thought has been given to his successor. He added that he shows an interest in the college, that probably months would elapse before a new coach could be obtained.

Harlow, at his Westminster home, said the "suddenness of the offer" had left his future plans uncertain. He said he would "go to Cambridge in about a week to confer with Harvard athletic authorities."

Nothing had been decided, he said, concerning assistants and he did not know whether the present Crimson staff would be retained or if he would bring in coaches conversant with his system.

In his 23 years of coaching, Harlow has coached at Penn State, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Colgate, and Western Maryland—during which time he worked with nine undefeated teams.

Since he took over the reins at Western Maryland nine years ago, the Terriers have won 61 games, tied 7, and lost 13. The Harlow-coached team has amassed 1,742 points during the period to 368 for their opponents. Last season, Western Maryland won 8 games, tied 1, and lost none.

L. S. U. TO PLAY NINE GRID GAMES

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 6.—(AP) Louisiana State University, with a new coach and expecting to turn out a football team to play the University of Texas, Georgia and an international game with Manhattan College in New York next year.

Back from New York, where he attended the National Coaches' Association meeting, Bernie Moore, named to replace Captain Lawrence "Biff" Jones as L. S. U.'s head coach, said a nine-game affair with four home contests.

The 1935 schedule contains two games less than the 1934 11-game schedule.

Moore said he would settle down at once to the task of taking up where Captain Jones left off.

"Our primary concern now is the athletes passing their scholastic requirements with flying colors this month," he asserted. Then we'll start thinking and working to build a winning football team with a good, spirited spring practice."

L. S. U. will meet Texas for the first time on September 25 at Baton Rouge. The schedule follows: September 28—Rice at Baton Rouge. October 5—Texas U. at Baton Rouge. October 12—Manhattan at New York. October 19—Arkansas at Shreveport. October 26—Vanderbilt at Nashville. November 2—Auburn at Baton Rouge. November 9—Mississippi State at Baton Rouge. November 16—Georgia at Athens. November 30—Tulane at New Orleans.

George Hansford, Glendale, Cal., featherweights, 10; Spokane, Wash., Abie Israel, Spokane, vs. Baby Palmieri, Los Angeles, featherweights, 10; Tiger Jack Fox, Terre Haute, vs. Dutch Weiner, San Diego, heavyweights, 8; Philadelphia, Johnny Judick, Philadelphia, vs. Phil Baker, Peter Hayes, New York, featherweights, 8.

New York, Harry Dubinsky, Chicago, vs. Lou Ambers, Herkimer, N. Y., lightweights, 10; Lew Feldman, New York, vs. Frankie Wallace, Cleveland, lightweights, 10; Joe Tan, Tokyo, vs. Indian Quintana, Panama, bantamweights, 10; Leonard Del Genio, New York, vs. Frankie Wallace, Cleveland, lightweights, 8.

Saturday, New York, Jack Lesznicki, Cliffside, N. J., vs. Bucky Lavella, Syracuse, middleweights, 8.

BOBBY JONES AND PARTNER WIN EXHIBITION

Atlantian Holes Long Putt for Birdie To Decide Match.

By Norman Walker.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Holding out a 10-foot putt for a birdie on the eighteenth green, Bobby Jones gave his side a one-up victory in a best-of-four exhibition match at the Metairie Golf Club here today before approximately 5,000 fans.

The huge gallery failed to dull the wistfulness of the king of golf as he stroked out a neat round of 75. Jones, playing with Nelson Whitney, dean of southern golfers and the man who eliminated Jones from his first big tournament here more than 15 years ago, were teamed against Fred Hunt Jr., 18-year-old southern and western junior golf champion, and Fred Odum II, the local city champion.

BUSINESS-LIKE. Bobby played a cool, business-like game of golf without any effort whatsoever. Almost every golf fan in New Orleans was on hand and each green was banked with faces. The crowd blocked many shots.

The match was all even when the foursome began the eighteenth hole. Jones was close to the carpet in two on the five-par hole and chipped beautifully 10 feet from the pin. He needed a sink, as Haas, Odum and Whitney held out their relatives.

Jones was out in 37 and back in 38 for his 75 over the par 71 course. The young, gangling champion, Fred Hunt Jr., whose golf brought praise even from Jones himself, shot the best game of the afternoon.

Haas scored a 78, two strokes more than par, but fell into the trap of the last hole. He stroked out a fine 35, one under par, going out to put him and Odum one up at the turn.

PUTTING LAPSE. Haas and Odum went into a putting lapse on the last few holes to allow Jones and Whitney to take back the lead provided by Haas's brilliant early shooting.

The magic effect of the name of Jones in golf brought the fans out in droves, so much so that the Junior League group who sponsored the exhibition, reported they ran out of printed tickets and were forced to improvise a flock of extra ducats on slips of paper.

On the long ninth hole, Bobby was on the green in two, 20 feet from the pin. He rimmed his putt, barely missing sinking it for an eagle.

Whitney provided the thrill when he dropped a difficult approach shot from a sand trap on the short twelfth hole.

Jones is on an exhibition tour and is due in Houston, Texas, tomorrow.

TUESDAY CARD FULL OF ACTION

Danny Roche, the clever French-Canadian heavyweight, has been causing quite a stir in the wrestling ranks lately but Tuesday night he will have one of the toughest customers in the game to deal with.

Roche is matched with John Paul Jones, the hook scissor king from Texas and a popular man here, in the main event of the night.

This match heads one of the best card managed by Webber in some time. He declared that he would give the fans bigger and better matches during the new year and judging from the first show a lot about the next card he is sticking to his word.

He also is bringing in more new talent and a big year in the bone-bending business.

Broko Nagurski, terror of the grid, will make his mat debut here Tuesday night against Whitey Hewitt, the old reliable, the semi-indie.

Matchmaker Henry Weber's second show of the new year, they will meet in a 90-minute match and plenty of action is promised.

This match heads one of the best card managed by Webber in some time. He declared that he would give the fans bigger and better matches during the new year and judging from the first show a lot about the next card he is sticking to his word.

He also is bringing in more new talent and a big year in the bone-bending business.

Broko Nagurski, terror of the grid, will make his mat debut here Tuesday night against Whitey Hewitt, the old reliable, the semi-indie.

Matchmaker Henry Weber's second show of the new year, they will meet in a 90-minute match and plenty of action is promised.

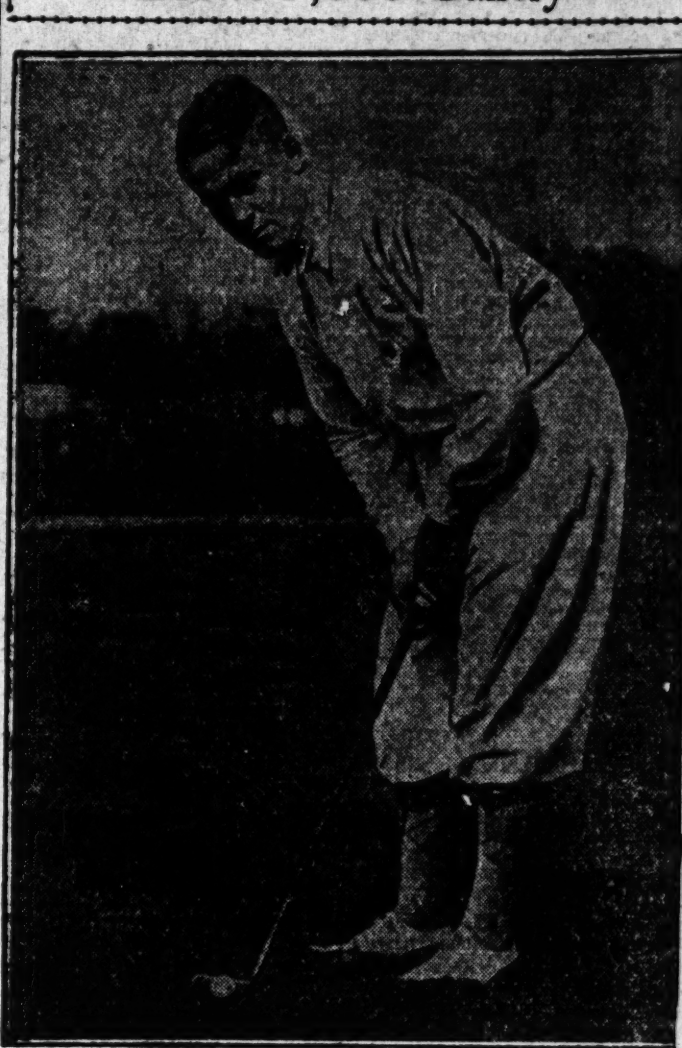

This match heads one of the best card managed by Webber in some time. He declared that he would give the fans bigger and better matches during the new year and judging from the first show a lot about the next card he is sticking to his word.

He also is bringing in more new talent and a big year in the bone-bending business.

Broko Nagurski, terror of the grid, will make his mat debut here Tuesday night against Whitey Hewitt, the old reliable, the semi-indie.

Matchmaker Henry Weber's second show of the new year, they will meet in a 90-minute match and plenty of action is promised.

Draws 5,000 Gallery

BOBBY JONES

Stanford Made Mistake Of Scoring First—Will

Sage of Beverly Hills Says It Was Like Holding Picture Up of Sherman's March.

By Jack Troy.

The sage of Beverly Hills was on the air over the Columbia network last night and he was giving it to Stanford. The air, that is. He wanted Alabama back next year.

Will Rogers had promised friends he would tell about the Rose Bowl game in one of his broadcasts. He devoted about a third of his time to the game last night.

"Sure was a fine game," said Rogers' voice as it came drifting from the radio in his lovely western drawl.

"Stanford made a mistake in scoring first. It just made those Alabama boys mad. They remembered what the folks back home had said about not letting those Hoover republicans do anything to them. (Stanford is located at Palo Alto, home of Hoover.)

A first score was like holding a picture up of Sherman's March to the Sea.

"Alabama had this fellow Dixie Howell who was the best back we've seen out here."

CURIOS. "He threw a few short passes that traveled like a bullet and the Stanford backfield came in to see them. Then he threw one so far that the fellow had to go all the way back to the goal line to catch it."

"Howell figured this fellow Don Hutson, who is a great pass receiver, must be getting tired and since it was only 67 yards to the goal he carried it himself."

"A lot of folks wondered why Hutson didn't fumble some of those passes. Well, he didn't fumble any because he had to probe to get them. When they took Howell out and sent in a fellow named Riley. A fellow with a name like that should have gone to Notre Dame. He threw a couple of passes and then passed one to a touchdown."

FEEBLE EFFORTS. "Stanford threw one or two passes but after those Alabama passes it was like my trying to sing tenor after files to Shirley Temple."

"It's a wonderful team, and I want to see them back next year."

The voice of the sage of Beverly Hills rambled on. His tribute to the national champions is met with deep appreciation by his friends in the south.

Loss of Tompkins' Wreck Gamecocks

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 6.—(AP)—South Carolina's once mighty Gamecocks, who lost only two games in two years looked today like "just another basketball team" as the Gamecocks returned home after dropping contests to Maryland and Virginia.

The Tompkins brothers, Benjie and Freddie, returned to their home state, Texas, to play semi-pro basketball, they broke up one of the finest combinations in all of Dixie and apparently removed the Gamecocks from the front ranks of the championship contenders.

After Maryland had turned back the Carolina stars, 35 to 21, the previous evening, Virginia's Cavaliers last night triumphed, 53 to 27, with the brilliant Henry Sturm shooting the way.

He scored 14 points. Washington's Lee's Generals, the defending champions, will play their first conference game Thursday, meeting the strong North Carolina quint. Maryland will entertain V. M. I. Tuesday and Duke Friday. North Carolina will play V. M. I. at Lexington Friday and the following night will play V. P. I. at Blacksburg while Virginia and Washington & Lee are fighting it out at Lexington.

Hubert was registered at a local hotel following a conference with university authorities last night but could not be located for a statement.

Bryan Grant, Riled by Tilden, Offers To Play Him for $100

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6.—(UP)—"Just a marathon runner with a lot of courage," so Bryan M. (Bitty) Grant, national clay court champion, was referred to in a quotation of William T. Tilden, professional star and former amateur champion, yesterday.

But in the background, the little Atlanta star, competing in the third annual Miami Biltmore tennis championships here, who resented the remark by Tilden, said: "Give me three weeks' training and I'll play the big lanky boy, Mr. William T. Tilden, on any clay court in the country for $100. I have no personal grievance against Tilden, but I don't think he should speak the way he has about Wilmer Allison, Frankie Parker and myself, who are doing what we can for amateur tennis in America."

Grant met Tilden only once, when he was 18, six years ago.

GREAT SUCCESS OF FIFTH MEET IS BIG FACTOR

George Isemann, National Secretary, Astonished at Large Entry.

By Jack Troy.

Nothing less than the majestic, which freed translated means high treason, will keep the United States sweepstakes of 1936 away from Atlanta.

A success? That is, the one just concluded at Bick's stadium in the Belle Isle garage. One hundred percent. There were 29 bowling stars of the nation and Atlanta entered.

George Isemann, secretary of the National Duckypin Bowling Congress, said frankly that he expected an entry of nine or ten less.

EXPECTED 20. "I expected to see 20 bowlers line up at the start. When the entry increased to 29 I was astounded. Last year in Washington, center of the nation's bowling activities, there were only 16 entries. And the year before at Richmond there were only 26 entries."

"This, of course, makes the 1936 sweepstakes the third largest ever held. And there is a good chance that Atlanta may get the 1938 sweepstakes. The sweepstakes is worth anywhere from $750 to $1,000 to the winner.

John Bick wants next year's sweepstakes. He believes he could equal the entry of the first sweepstakes. The first sweepstakes of 1930 held forth at Bick's stadium in Washington. There was an entry of 39 bowlers. Bick entered many of them from his Washington league. A meeting is to be held in April to award the season's tournaments.

All the bowlers who took part in last Saturday's sweepstakes are willing to return to Atlanta. They received fine treatment and spoke very highly of the hospitality of John Bick and his associates.

WON BY WHITE. The sweepstakes was won, of course, by Jack Leventhal-White, New Haven star, with a 15-game total of 2,001. The first runner-up, his Connecticut teammate, was second, Paul Harrison and Ed Blakney, of Washington, finished third and fourth, respectively.

A capacity gallery was present at the games. And the fifth United States sweepstakes was a success in every sense of the word. One hundred percent.

John Bick is going to make a great bid for the U. S. coin and then, along about 1937 or 1938, the National Duckypin Congress is coming to Atlanta. What's what George Isemann, secretary of the association, says.

KLEIN, ARMOUR TIED AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Willie Klein, of Wheatley Hills, La., and Jimmy Armour, of New Orleans, tied for first place in the 30-hole Miami open today.

Armour, who finished with 69, went through a rugged first nine to make the turn in 38. He played the back nine with a 35 for a 73.

But he was leader for only 15 minutes. Klein came in with 71, which added to his 68, gave him 139, tied with Armour.

David Schick, Chicago, was a threat to Armour and Klein, but slipped until he slipped to a 37 on the final nine holes today to give him 141 for the first half of the $2,500 medal play.

Closely following was Joe Turnesa, of West Hartford, Conn., with 142, who ended a par 70 today, which was added to his first day's score of 142.

In the 143 bracket were John Matic, of Youngstown, Ohio; Ralph Stonehouse, of Indianapolis, the defending champion; and Bobby Cruikshank, of Richmond, Va., recent winner of the British Colonial open.

Cruikshank took the honor of the day's low scorer with 35-38 for a sub-par 68.

Others scored included Johnny Farrell, Hollywood, Fla., 154; Tommy Scott, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., 154; Bruno Minkley, Buffalo, N. Y., 156; Jack Anderson, Cleveland, 157; Art Lynch, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 157; Charles Penn, Chicago

ATLANTA
The Buying Center of the Southeast

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

ATLANTA
The Headquarters of Diversified Industry

Expansion To Mark Crichton's Business College's Fiftieth Anniversary

LARGER FACULTY, MORE EQUIPMENT TO BE PROVIDED

Miss E. Katherine Reid, President, Announces Steady Increase in Enrollment for Institution.

Crichton's Business College, a "landmark" among institutions of its kind in the south, this year will observe its 50th anniversary with a program of expansion designed to still further enhance its efficiency of service, according to Miss E. Katherine Reid, its owner and president.

The school was founded in 1885 by E. C. Crichton, under whose personal direction it was successfully operated for 45 years. Miss Reid assumed the presidency in 1930, upon the death of Mr. Crichton, having been his first assistant for 12 years prior to that time. Splendidly equipped by background and training, she possesses a sympathetic understanding in dealing with her students and a breadth of vision so necessary in her capacity as an executive.

The business college's expansion program, in keeping with Miss Reid's long established policy of providing the best available in facilities and instruction for the steadily-increasing enrollment, will include enlargement of the teaching staff and installation of additional equipment for instruction in improved business office methods. It has long been the policy of Crichton's Business College, she states, never to enroll a greater number of students than can be cared for adequately.

In view of the larger enrollment, additional space has been provided during the holidays at the college's quarters, giving it frontage on Plaza Way, and on Pryor and Alabama streets. Physical facilities of the school are entirely in keeping with the high type of its personnel and enrollment. Its home, though centrally located downtown, is not hedged in by other buildings, and its spacious classrooms, each with many windows, present a bright and pleasant appearance, ideally suited for and conducive to study.

Crichton's Business College Head

Miss E. Katherine Reid, president of Crichton's Business College since the death of its founder in 1930, is shown here at her desk, where she has successfully directed this popular southern institution in recent years. Miss Reid is a firm advocate of business training and especially advises the use of idle time during enforced unemployment to improve one's abilities and develop his future prospects for employment and advancement.

Courses offered at Crichton's Business College, Miss Reid points out, are designed to give the maximum amount of efficiency in a minimum of time. The school features the most improved methods of instruction in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, accounting, mimeographing, filing, dictaphone operation, English, spelling, letter writing and business administration.

Only the latest editions of textbooks are used, paralleling in many instances the courses offered in the public schools, thus enabling pupils to continue courses already begun in high school or elsewhere.

While both Gregg and Pitman shorthand are offered, Miss Reid lays

CRUMBLEY JOBS REFLECT UPTURN IN BUSINESS TIDE

Company Reports Increase in Distribution of Advertising Matter Here in Recent Months.

House-to-house distribution of samples and advertising matter, long considered an accurate barometer of business conditions, has indicated a steady advance in recent months, with prospects for a strong immediate upward surge, according to A. S. Crumbley, president of the Crumbley Distributing Service, at 121 Edgewood avenue, S. E.

The Crumbley organization, he states, distributed approximately 7,000,000 pieces of advertising matter to Atlanta homes during the past year, including circulars, pamphlets, booklets, samples and many other types of matter representing the sales appeal of both local and national business concerns.

"The increased use of house-to-house distribution facilities in recent months," Mr. Crumbley declares, "is a positive indication of a generally improved feeling in business circles and of a restored confidence in the immediate future. Many national organizations have recently found in our service the answer to their problem of specialized distribution—a positive indication of their belief in a rapid return to normal buying power on the part of the public."

Since its establishment in 1910, the Crumbley Distributing Service, it has been estimated, has distributed approximately 100,000,000 pieces of advertising literature and other matter to the doors of homes and offices in Atlanta and its environs. In recent years this tremendous task has included distribution of the Atlanta telephone directory and numerous other jobs of similar magnitude.

Business houses not only here but throughout the nation, wishing to reach all or any specified area at all times while on duty. Every distributor, before being entrusted with a job, undergoes thorough training under a supervisor, who instructs him in the proper methods of distribution, giving to the advertiser a definite assurance

JOHN H. HARLAND VOICES OPTIMISM FOR COMING YEAR

Lithographing and Printing Concern's Sales Staff Meets for Annual Discussion of Problems.

Favorable echoes from 1934—declared one of the most successful business years since the company's organization in 1922—and expressions of confidence and optimism for the year just begun featured the annual sales convention of the John H. Harland Company staff, just closed here.

John H. Harland, president of the company, which specializes in high-grade printing and lithographing, declared the year just past registered sharp gains in volume at the retail store at 8 South Pryor street, as well as in all departments of the manufacturing plant at Highland avenue and Jackson street.

"Our steady and consistent gains during the past year," Mr. Harland asserts, "reflect a gratifying upturn in business generally. This improvement has been felt not only in Atlanta but throughout the wide territory we serve, indicating the entire southeast is moving steadily along toward complete business recovery during the coming year."

Commenting upon the sales convention just held, Mr. Harland paid warm tribute to the spirit of co-operation and loyalty manifested by the attendance of every city salesman, all out-of-town salesmen and the company's executive staff.

Out-of-town representatives attending were J. R. Harwick, whose territory covers North and South Carolina; Hal Dodson, covering Alabama and Florida; and Ben Adams, whose territory embraces all of Georgia outside of Atlanta.

During the period since its organization, the John H. Harland Company has shown a consistent growth until it now occupies a coveted position among southern lithographing, printing and office supply houses.

From a small, local business, it has expanded its service to cover the entire southeast, and employs approximately 50 persons with a payroll of several thousands of dollars monthly. The manufacturing department, housed in a specially constructed daylight plant, is equipped throughout with the most improved machinery for lithographing and printing, manned by skilled operators. Chief among its products are high grade lithographed bonds, securities, checks and all types of insurance forms.

The company maintains a completely stocked downtown retail store next to the entrance of the Ten Pryor Street building, where office stationery and other supplies and appliances may be obtained. Quick delivery is an important adjunct to the retail store's service to business offices.

That the piece of advertising will reach the consumer, The Crumbley organization maintains strict standards, and no matter is placed where it will be or blown away.

FRANK M. POWELL'S MINUTE MAN
GARAGE

Complete Automotive Service
Serving Greater Atlanta Since 1919
Our New Garage Is a Development of Experience.
971 Peachtree St., N. E. RE. 0478

MILHOUS, GAINES & MAYES
Southern State, County and Municipal Bonds BOUGHT—SOLD—QUOTED : : : INQUIRIES INVITED
RHODES-HAVERTY BUILDING
ATLANTA, GEORGIA WEBB CRAWFORD BUILDING
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

GOUEDY'S
For Distinctive Direct-Mail
Publicity.
MULTIGRAPHING
MIMEOGRAPHING
420 RHODES-HAVERTY BLDG.
Call or Write
WA. 9161-62
Atlanta, Ga.

NEW YORK STOCK HOUSE, Inc.
The Leading Wholesaler and Manufacturer in the Southeast for Ladies' Ready-to-Wear.
NEW YORK STYLES, TERMS and PRICES.
Complete Assortment Always in Stock for Immediate Delivery
206-208 Pryor St., S. W. WA. 9093

FOOTE & DAVIES CO.
PRINTING
LITHOGRAPHING ENGRAVING
BRIEFS
FORMS
OFFICE SUPPLIES
PLANT AT CAPITOL
AND MILTON AVES., S.W.
15 EDGEWOOD
AVE., S.W.

Mr. Merchant
You can reach every home in Atlanta direct at small cost with CRUMBLEY delivered circulars.
Phone WA. 2480

FUEL OIL
All Makes of Oil Burners
WE ARE JOHNSON FOR AMERICAN OIL COMPANY PRODUCTS NATIONAL PRODUCTS OIL CO.
1610 MARITIME, N. W. RE. 1800

LET US FIX
'EM
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

EAST POINT CHEVROLET CO.
NEW CARS
USED CARS

100,000 Sq. Feet
MORE THAN TWO ACRES!
FLOOR SPACE
Greater Selection
STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

Sterchi's To Show Latest In Furnishings for Home

In the above photo, Joe Almand, manager of the radio department of Sterchi Brothers, Inc., is seen discussing the merits of one of the new and famous Philco "X" models with Royce Jones, member of the sales staff. Sterchi's is dealer for Philco, Crosley, RCA and Grunow radios, a complete array of which may be seen on the first floor of the Whitehall street store.

That Atlanta and Georgia home owners will have the opportunity to select furnishings from among the nation's outstanding new creations is assured by W. M. Hicks, vice president of Sterchi Brothers Stores, Inc., and Paul Sillin, decorator, who are now in Chicago attending the first great furniture market showings of 1935.

While in Chicago, Mr. Hicks and Mr. Sillin will select new merchandise for immediate shipment to Sterchi's Atlanta store, located at 116-120 Whitehall street.

Mr. Sillin, who is an acknowledged southern interior decorating authority, will devote much of his time toward the selection of new upholstery and drapery fabrics while in Chicago. Sterchi's fourth floor display of period pieces also will be increased with selections he plans to make.

Accompanying Mr. Hicks and Mr. Sillin are C. C. Rutherford, president of Sterchi Brothers Stores, Inc., and managers of other Sterchi stores throughout the southeast.

The radio fan will find an inspiring spectacle in Sterchi's electrical department, where the most outstanding new models of 1935 are on display.

GOOD NEWS!
For Business Men and Women
Special Lunch -- 25c
Every Day from 11:30 to 2:30 Friday Night Is Sea Food Night at MAJESTIC RESTAURANT
Peachtree at Tenth St.

FIRST MORTGAGE LOANS
On Owner Occupied Homes
AT INTEREST RATE AS LOW AS 6%
Monthly Installments As Low As
$7.50
Including Interest and Principal FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF ATLANTA
28 Auburn Ave., N. E.
WAlnut 7329
(Formerly First National Building and Loan Assn.)

PLAN FOR LIFE WITH INCOME FOUNDATION
More than an investment trust, more than insurance against death, more than an annuity, more than a savings account, INCOME FOUNDATION PLAN combines the advantages of all four of these investments.
BONDS, POOL & COMPANY
1701 Rhodes-Haverty Bldg. — Walnut 5887

ZACHARY INSURANCE AGENCY
SECURITY SERVICE SAVINGS
FIRE AUTOMOBILE MUTUAL INSURANCE R. H. ZACHARY TORNADO TENO FORTSYTH STREET BUILDING MA. 667 3
PLATE GLASS

ROSELLE
"The Hatter"
When buying your new hat, ask your hat man where to have the old one cleaned and renovated.
Prompt Service on Mail Orders
35 FORSYTH ST.
Ground Floor—Palmer Building

LOOK AT YOUR SHOES!
Everyone Else Does
For Long Wearing and Comfort
LET US APPLY THE LATEST Vulcanizing Process
SUTTON'S
11 EDGEWOOD AVE. JA. 1300
Hat Renovating
SHOE CLEANING AND DYEING
A Specialty

ERNEST G. BEAUDRY
Authorized Dealer
169-175 Marietta St., N. W. JA. 0445

ELLIS
GENUINE
RU-BER-OLD ROOFS RIGHT FOR OVER 40 YEARS
APPLIED BY Ellis Roofing
Company
686 Greenwood Ave., N. E.
HE. 1131

A NEW AMCO
ROOF IS WISE ECONOMY GET YOUR FURNACE REPAIRED NOW
We Are Prepared To Meet
All Requirements of NHA
CHAS. N. WALKER
ROOFING CO.
WA. 5747
241 Marietta St., N. E.

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

"Every Office Aid—for Every Kind of Trade"

PRINTING
LITHOGRAPHING
OFFICE SUPPLIES
BINDING
LOOSE LEAF SYSTEMS
FILING SUPPLIES

JOHN H.
HARLAND
COMPANY

Offices and Retail Store
8 PRYOR STREET
Manufacturing Dept.
HIGHLAND AT JACKSON

the flaps STICK!

You'll find it to your advantage to buy envelopes direct from the manufacturer.

ATLANTA
ENVELOPE
COMPANY
505-7-9-11 Stewart Ave., S. W.
Main 3370

HOLLAND TIRE CO., Inc.
Exclusive Distributor
KELLY SPRINGFIELD
TIRES AND TUBES
28-30 Ivy St. WA. 0700
Ivy St. Garage Bldg.

BAXTER MADDOX AGENCY
THE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE INS. CO.
RETIREMENT PLANS
With or Without Insurance
100 CANNON BLDG. WA. 0852

COURTS & CO.
Members New York Stock Exchange
Members New York Cotton Exchange
Associate Members New York Curb Exchange

U. S. GOVERNMENT & MUNICIPAL BONDS
CORPORATE BONDS AND STOCKS
HOME OWNERS LOAN CORP. BONDS
FEDERAL FARM MORTGAGE CORP. BONDS INVESTMENT ADVISORY SERVICE
11 Marietta St., N. W., Atlanta Phone WA. 9110

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

Bank and Insurance Stocks Industrial & Public Utility Stocks and Bonds
ALLEN & COMPANY
First National Bank Building
Phone WAlnut 1252

Sanderson Adjustment Bureau
INCORPORATED
CREDITORS PROTECTIVE SERVICE
Executive Offices
CITIZENS & SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK BUILDING
ATLANTA

THE NEW
"CATERPILLAR"
22
OIL BURNER
FARM TRACTOR
Saves 1/3 Fuel Cost
"CATERPILLAR" DIESEL POWER UNITS
YANCEY BROS., Inc.
634 WHITEHALL ST. ATLANTA, GA.

100,000 Sq. Feet
MORE THAN TWO ACRES!
FLOOR SPACE
Greater Selection
STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

STERCHI'S
Quick Service Radiator Co.
224-10 Walton St., N. W. JA. 1300

料理舞踏
CHOP SUEY
DINE DANCE STEAK best in town
WISTERIA GARDEN
1724 PEACHTREE ST., N. E. 5664
NEXT TO WINGOFF HOTEL

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

When You Have
TIRE Trouble
CALL
BILL TODD
1333 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR
McClaren
TIRES
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH
PRODUCT, FOR OVER 14 YEARS.
HAVE YOUR WORN
TIRES RETREADED
McClaren's method

THE CONSTITUTION

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING Information

CLOSING HOURS

Want Ads are accepted up to 5 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 5:30 p. m. Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:
One line, 20 cents
Three lines, 17 cents
Seven lines, 15 cents
Minimum, 12 cents (12 words).

In estimating the space to an ad figure six average words to a line. Ads ordered for three or seven days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustments made at the rate earned. Refunds in advertising should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. All want ads are restricted to their proper classification and the advertiser reserves the right to revise or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directory on Monday. Medium charges only, in return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

To Phone An Ad

Call WALNUT 6565

Ask for an Ad-Taker

Railroad Schedules

Schedules Published as Information.

(Constr. Published as Information.)

TERMINAL STATION

Arrives—A. & W. P. R. R.—Leaves

11:30 p. m. New Orleans-Montgomery 1:00 p. m.

1:30 p. m. Montgomery Local 1:50 p. m.

7:20 a. m. New Orleans-Montgomery 4:30 p. m.

11:40 a. m. New Orleans-Montgomery 6:05 p. m.

Arrives—G. O. R. R.—Leaves

5:35 a. m. Macdon-Savannah 7:25 a. m.

10:30 a. m. Columbia 11:45 a. m.

10:35 a. m. Macdon-Savannah 12:05 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

6:30 a. m. Macdon-Savannah-Miami 7:25 p. m.

TARZAN AND THE LION MAN No. 97

The gorilla man pulled up a chair in front of the bars and laughed. "Henry the Eighth is trying to induce his followers to kill me—their Creator! But they won't bother me tonight; so let's have a pleasant little visit. There won't be many more opportunities!"

Now Rhonda steered herself to ask: "What is this strange purpose we are to serve?" "Strictly scientific," her captor grinned. "You see, as a student at Oxford, I was intrigued by the investigations of Lamarck and Darwin. I was determined to carry them further."

"In 1857—yes, I am 102 years old—I felt that I had solved the mystery of heredity. When I announced my theory, I was threatened with the madhouse. But secretly I began to seek 'human' subjects for my research—just as I want you two for another experiment!"

Tarzan and Rhonda looked at each other. The precise nature of the experiment was not yet clear, but they knew it was concerned with the frightful, shadowy borderland of science; and already the creature had hinted that for them the result would be certain death!

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Real Estate For Rent

Unfurnished Duplexes 73-A

800 N. Main St., E. Post, 4 rms. .... $20
708 Myrtle St., E. Post, 4 rms. .... $20
901 Edgewood Ave., E. Post, 4 rms. .... $20
REAL ESTATE SERVICE CO.
1114 First Nat'l Bank Bldg. W.A. 2646
352 S. HUNTER, N. W.—Three rooms, heat, separate entrance and bath; adults. HE. 8117.
35 Tenth St., N. W.—6-rm. brick duplex. Furnace, $28. C. G. Aycock Realty Co.
976 Drewry, N. E.—4 rooms, heat, lights, water furn. Adults. HE. 0789-J.

Apartments Furnished 74

830 PEACHTREE-TENTH SECTION—Living, bed, breakfast room, kitchen, bath, 822 Myrtle.
SPACIOUS apartment, best location, completely furnished; for 3 months. M-251, Constitution.
EXCEPTIONAL furnished apartment, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, phone, HE. 6100-M.
BEAUTIFUL, decorated, new furniture, 4-rm. apt. All convs. DE. 4677.
Apartments Unfurnished 74-A

2200 PEACHTREE ROAD.

8-ROOM APARTMENT, UNUSUALLY NICE LOCATION AND LOCATION. ADULTS. SEE J. ANDERSON, 2200 PEACHTREE ROAD, O. G. SHIPP.
NIGHTS. HE. 1834.

SEE IT TODAY!

Corner 4-room apartment in CHATHAM COURT. Corner Piedmont and Third. ATTRACTIVE new interiors. Janitor will show, only $35. Responsibility with references. HE. 2307.

FOR BEST APARTMENT VALUES CALL

NATIONAL REALTY MANAGEMENT Company, Inc.

Ground Floor, Cadillac Bldg. W.A. 2226

SEE OR CALL

ADAMS-CATES CO.

For a complete list of desirable apartments

FOR Atlanta's best list of high type apartments.

Rankin-Whitten Realty Co.

Carnegie Way, N. W. W.A. 0638

2 COLIER ROAD—Apt. No. 4. Available Jan. 15, 1935. 5 rooms. Heat, fur. leaving city. Rate $80. Office Tel. W.A. 0833. Residence HE. 2347.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

1521 VIRGINIA AVE., N. E.—large, conv. school, car, reasonable. JA. 2344-W.

Admits Killing Two.
NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., Jan. 6. (AP)—State Police Officer Richard Gray said today that he had admitted the slaying of his estranged wife, Mrs. Leona Biting, 38, and Lloyd Irvin Naylor, 35, of Millersville, in the home near Loxville in which Mrs. Biting was housekeeper for an invalid.

Real Estate For Sale

Wanted—Real Estate
WE WANT LISTINGS
APARTMENTS, HOMES, LOTS, ACREAGE SEE US IF YOU WANT TO BUY—SELL—OR EXCHANGE
JOHN J. THOMPSON & CO., WA. 3935.
WANTED LISTINGS, HOLLYMAN
REALTY, WA. 5013.

Classified Display

Shoe Repairing
SPECIAL 39c
Genuine Leather Ladies' Shoes, 14c HALF SOLES
ECONOMY SHOE SHOP
Cor. Broad and Alabama Streets
UNDER JACOBS

Building Information

UNBIASED INFORMATION
NO OBLIGATIONS APPLICATION BLANKS FOR NEW BUILDING UNDER THE
Nat. Housing Act

Federal Bureau of Building Information
Ten Forsyth St. Bldg. Office 231
Phone Main 2715

Electrical Contracting

STILL LOOKING AT YOU

C. A. Puckett
At Buckhead
HOUSE WIRING REPAIR WORK ELECTRICAL FIXTURES
See Me for "Better Lighting"
18 Roswell Rd.
CH. 3622
RES. CH. 1368

BANK of the MANHATTAN COMPANY
New York

Chartered 1799

Statement of Condition December 31, 1934

ASSETS

Cash and due from Banks and Bankers $195,532,744.79
U. S. Government Obligations, Direct and Fully Guaranteed 111,385,775.69
Acceptances of Other Banks 11,008,398.42
Obligations of the State of New York 28,405,577.29
Other Public Securities 14,454,921.41
Other Securities 18,028,766.80
Demand Loans Against Collateral 49,660,476.76
Loans and Discounts 103,022,514.24
Real Estate Mortgages 9,649,535.55
Banking Houses Owned 15,934,202.69
Other Real Estate Owned 2,866,192.95
Customers' Liability for Acceptances (less Anticipations) 15,586,695.67
Other Assets 8,072,153.58
$583,607,955.84

LIABILITIES

Capital $20,000,000.00
Surplus 20,000,000.00
Undivided Profits 5,431,681.01
Reserve for Contingencies 3,534,103.57
Dividend Payable January 2, 1935 750,000.00
Deposits 416,881,887.73
Certified and Cashier's Checks 97,274,011.69
Acceptances Outstanding 17,026,253.03
Other Liabilities, Reserve for Taxes, etc. 2,710,018.81
$583,607,955.84

Of the above assets, $77,978,866.53 are deposited to secure public and trust deposits and for other purposes required by law.

Member New York Clearing House Association Member Federal Reserve System

The National City Bank of New York

Head Office:
Fifty-five Wall Street
New York

Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits
$165,773,297.90

Condensed Statement of Condition as of December 31, 1934

INCLUDING DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN BRANCHES

ASSETS

Cash and Due from Banks and Bankers $450,285,754.83
United States Government Obligations (Direct or Fully Guaranteed) 431,938,339.16
State and Municipal Bonds 63,857,374.60
Other Bonds and Securities 71,660,629.79
Loans, Discounts and Bankers' Acceptances 482,834,614.51
Customers' Liability Account of Acceptances 56,678,257.20
Stock in Federal Reserve Bank 6,600,000.00
Ownership of International Banking Corporation 58,162,278.89
Other Assets 10,993,582.78
Total $1,640,110,830.76

LIABILITIES

Capital $50,000,000.00
Preferred 50,000,000.00
Common 30,000,000.00
Undivided Profits 8,273,297.90
Reserves for:
Unearned Discount and Other Unearned Income 2,213,827.62
Interest, Taxes and Other Accrued Expenses 4,257,996.46
Dividends:
Preferred—to February 1, 1935 1,004,535.00
Common—to February 1, 1935 3,100,000.00
Items in Transit with Branches 3,377,340.18
Liability as Acceptor, Endorser or Maker on Acceptances and Bills 65,779,525.76
Deposits 1,394,604,307.84
Total $1,640,110,830.76

Figures of Foreign Branches are as of December 31, 1934

United States Government Obligations and other securities carried at $161,777,287.91 in the foregoing statement are deposited to secure public and trust deposits and for other purposes required by law.

DAILY SHORT STORY

ETERNAL LULLABY

Cries for Help Rising From the Bog Roused Mary From the Bedside of Her Failing Child.

BY COLETTE EAYNES.

It was once upon a time in the peaceful village of Glenmara, nestled contentedly beside one of Ireland's own blue lakes. A chill wind beat cold from the water, sending the simple folk close beside their fires.

Alone in her small cottage Mary Grady shivered and clutched the coarse woolen of her shawl more tightly. She felt the cold grow and swell until it became a horrible tangibility. Mary Grady knew it was the spirit of death she came to take her Shannon from her. Ah, God help her. Three nights now she had heard the low moan of the banshee rising from the bog with the sweep of the wind, and she knew that yesterday Michael had come to her at the old well behind the church—Michael, her man, who had been dead these four years.

Mary knew. There were signs that did not lie. Another loved one was to go and she could do nothing to save him.

She threw herself upon her knees before the fire, her hands clenched in a litany of despair. Why trouble? What if he should never move again? Why must he take all she had? Couldn't he leave her some living thing to love? Some living thing to keep her heart beating and her mind sane. He had taken Michael, young, laughing Michael, who wanted to live. And now—ah, but God forgive her for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

side Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

Dazedly, Mary unlatched the door, driven on by one thought. She must save them—save them.

With only the moon's still light to guide her, with the sharp wind beating her face and blowing her hair, with icy splashes of rain numbing her body and hopelessness weighing her heart, she pulled, tugged, despaired, until quivering globes of sweat and tears were mingled with the wind and rain.

She grew tired, exhausted, but some dynamic inner force transcending physical pain and endurance drove her on, fed her new strength. One more step, she thought, the last she could give, and she was free—a tiny boy crying piteously, a sweet baby no older than her own Shannon. Mary carried him into the house, her voice fractured with paroxysms of hysterical tenderness.

She placed the child on the bed beside Shannon and fell heavily to the floor. The swamp was a glutinous parasite that had ravaged her last reserves of energy. Soon Mary went to sleep and dreamed of an Irish mother whose heart was not going to break, whose joy overflowed in a rapturous joy of eternal sweetness, sung to all the babies of all the world—a glorious utterance of maternal benediction, a universal cradle song of unselfish love and protection.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was here to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child! Where was he? She looked around the room. He was none. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling to down on the loved ones, the little fairy child who peeped in through the window.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.) Tomorrow's story, by Arms, by Randy Taylor, is an episode in the life of Gladys, secretary to the hen-pecked Mr. Liverwright.

her. It was the banshee she was hearing outside the door. Again the wind crept by sobbing its message in imperative sadness. Then Mary Grady knew it was a human cry she was hearing—a cry for help, for life coming from the bog—not the first she had heard in her ten years of living on the swamp's edge.

side Shannon and fell